All the details in this catalogue have been published in good faith and are correct at time of going to press. Dimensions are approximate. The colours shown are as accurate as photographic and printing reproduction permit. In accordance with our policy of continuous product improvement and to take advantage of new materials and processes, we reserve the right to alter specifications, or withdraw models with or without prior notice. Natural timber comes with its own individual characteristics and being a natural product shades and grain patterns can vary along with slight blemishes within the wood itself. This is inevitable with natural timber and can make each piece unique.
