On wards and upwards

THE lure of the open road, with the wind in his face accompanied by a throbbing Harley Davison soundtrack, proved too much for Mark Webley to ignore. He'd turned his back on motorbikes decades earlier, but with his 50th on the horizon the married dad-of-one decided it was now or never. So he purchased a Harley Davison 883 Custom bike, and he's never been happier. "It's a bit of a toy," he admits. "I started off
