Our Mission

HOPE worldwide changes lives by harnessing the compassion and commitment of dedicated staff and volunteers to deliver sustainable, high-impact, community-based services to the poor and needy.

Areas of Focus

Jesus' example is at the center of everything we do. HOPE worldwide's staff and volunteers strive to imitate His example of unconditional love and compassion for the poor – without regard to faith or background. After more than 25 years, HOPE worldwide continues to be a community dedicated to serving, teaching and healing families made vulnerable due to poverty, disease or disaster, enabling them to rise out of their desperate situations. Together we are bringing hope and changing lives for good.

Dear Friend,

2018 was a tremendous year for HOPE worldwide. We are so proud of the many who gave, served and worked tirelessly to help people in need around the world. If you contributed, volunteered or raised funds, you were part of the team bringing hope to so many. Children from Africa to Alaska now have a vision for their future. Volunteers from Cambodia to Kathmandu have loved and served people in need. From Boston to Brazil, the suffering have witnessed firsthand God's love and concern. This year our team members gave food to the hungry, shelter to the homeless and clothing to the naked. We are honored to serve the poor, the vulnerable and the marginalized from every race, color and creed on every inhabited continent. Thank you for your support and your part on our team. Our strength is our volunteers – we are able to do what we do because we have ready, willing and able volunteers in so many cities worldwide. Our partners value us because they know if they need 'boots on the ground' HOPE worldwide can be there quickly.

As a faith-based organization dedicated to following the directive of Jesus to love our neighbors, we are so encouraged about the disaster response teams in hard-hit regions of North America and Indonesia. HOPE worldwide's Global Disaster Response and Relief program brings hope and change to vulnerable communities through disaster preparedness and emergency relief. We also work to rebuild affected communities. The SPARK Academy in Houston has been a beacon of love to many children traumatized by the floods of Hurricane Harvey. The list of the many programs and volunteers who have impacted lives through their love and service is long and inspiring.

HOPE worldwide has responded to global natural disasters and provided necessary relief for twenty years. We have dedicated ourselves to three main areas of service: Volunteerism, Disaster Relief and Community Empowerment. Today, we serve more than 1.5 million people annually on every inhabited continent. Our volunteers serve in more than 60 countries. Our sustainable community programs, early childhood development training and ESL courses support those in need and prepare them for success.

The year 2018 gave us a great opportunity for service and love provided by our many volunteers around the world. We are grateful to be able to be part of the team that brings hope to the hopeless around the world.

Sincerely,

Robert Carrillo

VOLUNTEER CORPS

Spanning the globe with 28 different programs, HOPE worldwide Volunteer Corps mobilizes volunteers to care for the most vulnerable among us. We focus on high-impact, sustainable programs that provide a variety of services from rehabilitation in disaster-stricken communities to medical services and healthcare training, vocational training and social services, sustainable agriculture and community and leadership development. Our volunteers are incredibly diverse: they hail from all continents and socio-economic strata, and range in age from teens to septuagenarians. Our volunteers frequently return to the same sites multiple times, believing we receive as much as we give.

In 2018, we had over 700 volunteers. Of those, roughly 200 were teens, 200 were campus students, 200 were singles, and another 100 were married people or families.

Local HOPE worldwide entities benefit from programs that educate people in the coordination of global service teams. As such, college students train as Global Service Interns (GSI) to run Volunteer Corps. We have had over 70 graduates of this training program. Part of our mission is to inspire volunteers not just to make service a once-in-a-lifetime experience, but to instill a love for it that transforms them into lifelong advocates for the poor.

Recently HOPE_{www} Volunteer Corps (HVC) members traveled to New Zealand and discovered that just two weeks of involvement by 40 volunteers can make a significant impact. Volunteers worked the land, planted a vegetable garden and built a greenhouse to aid in the community's agricultural sustainability. They also connected on a cultural level, seeking to learn the values of the Maori community. One area of emphasis at HVC is the need for respectful service and mutuality. We learn at least as much as we teach. Volunteers in Auckland have built a foundation for a strong and sustainable relationship with the local Maori community thanks to the two weeks of effort by HVC members. HVC's goal is continued service to the community and the establishment of a long-term and more comprehensive HOPE worldwide assistance program.

Over 7,500 miles to the north, The Gateway to the Arctic (G2A) Camp Volunteer Corps program in Alaska has had a distinct impact. The program teaches hands-on skills ranging from carpentry and agriculture to life skills for people with special needs. Those participants with special needs are paired with typically functioning participants to learn and practice these new skills for a period of time. The result is a powerful partnership and increased self-confidence.

At the camp young people like Michael and Makayla experience hands-on gardening, a variety of fun-filled activities, and time spent in nature. They also form lasting and supportive friendships, all because of the volunteers' willingness to serve. Thanks to HOPE worldwide Volunteer Corps, many differently-abled people in Alaska have caring instruction, mentoring and an outlet for outdoor fun.

Adventure Corps

HOPE worldwide Adventure Corps is a research-based leadership, survival and service training experience in Anchorage, Alaska. We believe that the wilderness is the perfect training ground for leadership instruction and character development. We reach out to unique individuals with an adventurous spirit to experience service in the wilderness. Volunteers conduct wilderness training, vocational services and community development programs for kids and young people with special needs. We train leaders who will go back to their communities and make a difference.

Campus Clubs

HOPE worldwide Campus Clubs are service clubs located in Texas, Alaska, Oregon and Arizona with a focus on college student volunteer mobilization. Since our launch in July 2018, seven Campus Clubs have been established and are actively serving those in need. We inspire and train college students in the US to serve in their local communities by helping them establish a HOPEww Campus Club at their university, and we provide ongoing leadership training.

Fabrice Ntalindwa, a freshman at The University of Texas at San Antonio, joined a team serving in Houston, Texas just weeks after Hurricane Harvey devastated the city. Later on in the following semester, he joined the HOPEww Campus Club at UTSA and became an officer. He is now in charge of creating service events for other students to come and volunteer.

“I have learned that in order to summit, I have to climb above myself and participate in the ideas of others. I know myself better and have created an awareness of myself, my emotions and how to serve better!”

US CHAPTERS

HOPE worldwide US operates individual chapters in 117 cities throughout the United States and Puerto Rico; program coordinators work with volunteers who donate nearly 40,000 service hours annually. The focus of these local chapters is to serve the needs of vulnerable populations within a defined geographic area.

The goal is to mobilize as many volunteers as possible to serve in assorted sustainable programs, and to form partnerships with local businesses to provide a variety of services. Volunteers serve in nursing homes, medical facilities, food pantries, homeless shelters, Saturday Academies, and after school and mentoring programs. In the coming year, our staff is preparing to launch Early Childhood Development and English Conversion Clubs throughout the United States. This year, over 975 people attended “We Serve” workshops in seven US cities. Volunteers of all ages, from pre-teens and teens to college students, single and married adults and empty nesters, received training in respectful, mutual and sustainable ways to serve those in need. In addition to ongoing service programs, volunteers stepped up to lend a hand quickly in the aftermath of such devastating disasters as hurricanes, wildfires and floods all over the country.

US Youth Programs

With a mission of inspiring and training young people for meaningful service, US Youth Programs operate principally via two avenues: HOPEww Scouts and the National Youth Advisory Council (NYAC). Scout troops currently serve in 31 US cities. Troops are composed of an average of 20 children (K-8) and 35 parents, giving us approximately 1,700 US participants that meet and serve together monthly.

NYAC concentrates on relationship-focused Passion Projects. These projects, student-inspired and student-led, specifically target community needs with sustainable results. Each NYAC member designs and leads both a fundraiser and an ongoing Passion Project in their local community. We also augmented our capstone training component, The Servant Leadership Academy, which trains members to build and refine sustainable community partnerships. Nationwide, approximately 1,400 high school and campus volunteers were mobilized by NYAC Passion Projects.

Young people are also having an impact on the world stage. For the third consecutive year HOPEww youth leaders participated in the United Nations Compact for Young People in Humanitarian Action. NYAC members also served as moderators for the Social Impact Youth Summit hosted at Stanford University by the UN Population Fund, GOODdler and the Institute for Evolutionary Leadership.

Karson Baldwin, NYAC member in Cleveland, started a relationship-based program called Oné Respé, which is a Haitian greeting of welcome that means “honor and respect.” The program partners American-born high school students with immigrant and refugee youth who have been in the US for less than six months at the International Newcomers Academy (INA). They spend their time in friendship-building activities and speaking conversational English. Because of their recent arrival to the US, INA students have low English proficiency. Many students, from the Democratic Republic of Congo, Tanzania, Burundi, Rwanda, the Dominican Republic, El Salvador, and Honduras, had schooling interrupted in their countries. Some had never even been to school. None had an American friend before this program began. According to one INA teacher, “this authentic purpose for using conversational English with American peers has been invaluable academically and socially.” Students’ English reading proficiency scores have improved dramatically, something the school attributes directly to the program. American students are coming to better understand immigration and the global refugee crisis and have grown to appreciate their new friends’ funny, kind and curious personalities, their hunger to learn and eagerness to ask questions. They have also come to respect the newcomers for their strength and resilience.

GLOBAL DISASTER RESPONSE

Global Disasters dominated the world news in 2018. Floods, hurricanes, earthquakes, wildfires and volcanic eruptions destroyed cities and devastated populations. HOPE worldwide quickly mobilized volunteers to provide lifesaving service on several continents.

Collaborating with local volunteers and supporters, teams worked together to make a lasting impact. In North America alone, over 1,500 volunteers provided direct relief to over 4,000 families.

At the global level, HOPE worldwide continues to coordinate with our global partners and relief organizations. We consult with the United Nations Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC), the European Union (EU) and the World Health Organization (WHO).

Throughout Asia, HOPE worldwide's Global Disaster Response program brings hope and change to vulnerable communities with disaster preparedness, emergency relief and community rebuilding. We deliver lifesaving services and equip communities to reduce their disaster risks. We also partner with other agencies and organizations to maximize impact and mobilize volunteers.

In 2018, and in the wake of devastating earthquakes and floods, HOPE worldwide traveled to 20 different sites and served 170,000 people in 20 disaster-affected communities across the globe by providing food, water, shelter, healthcare, clothing and psychosocial assistance. The breakdown of supplies and services is as follows:

- 35,558 lb of food
- 1,335 lb medical supplies
- 2,647 emergency shelters
- 1,019 hygiene kits
- 9,037 blankets
- 2,229 articles of clothing
- 53 water filters
- 13 latrines and water facilities
- 3 communal houses
- 1 three-room clinic
- 178 sessions of psychosocial support activities (play, music, art therapy)

Recently, the small village of Chhaimale, Nepal was devastated by the magnitude 7.8 earthquake in Kathmandu. Eighty percent of the houses in this small pear farming village were destroyed or severely damaged. After providing lifesaving services in the initial emergency period, HOPE worldwide, in collaboration with HOPE worldwide UK and HOPE worldwide Canada, also helped build a community center that aids in rebuilding the livelihood and economy of Chhaimale's citizens.

HOPE worldwide Global Disaster Response teams also serve in North America, South America and the Caribbean. The year 2018 saw multiple devastating disasters in this area of the world, and volunteers were there to help.

In 2018, we partnered with Feed the Children in two Florida panhandle cities by providing a specially equipped disaster response vehicle. The vehicle was loaded with food and hygiene products for over 1,000 families struck by Hurricane Michael. Damage and debris in Blountstown, Florida was so severe, city officials canceled all door-to-door Halloween activities. Coming together with other charities,

HOPE worldwide and Feed the Children parked the HOPE worldwide Global Disaster Response trailer alongside the Feed the Children semi-truck and held a 'trunk or treat' event, distributing food and hygiene products for families throughout the area. Local churches arranged a surprise visit from the Florida State University Seminoles Men's Basketball and Baseball teams who joined in the fun, handing out candy and relief supplies, which made the event even more special. A local chamber of commerce member broke down in tears of joy when witnessing the event. "No one does this kind of stuff for our community...every family here thanks you."

In response to the Volcán de Fuego eruption in Central America, HOPE worldwide met the needs of vast numbers of victims. We supplied immediate relief with clean water, medical care and temporary shelter. In the wake of the displacement and loss, mental health professionals also provided counseling and therapy. With this system, we have developed a multi-faceted approach to disaster response that promotes long-term healing.

Houston SPARK Academy

Long-term healing is also a focus in our US efforts. This year HOPE worldwide received a $460,000 grant from the American Red Cross for the SPARK Academy in Houston, Texas. SPARK stands for Special Program for Arts Resilience for Kids. Research shows that 12-18 months after a natural disaster is the most vulnerable time for children ages 5-12 to develop symptoms of post-traumatic stress. SPARK uses evidence-based research to develop psychosocial activities that include teaching character traits known to increase resiliency.

Our curriculum provides a confidence-building healing arts class where children process loss and gain confidence. The Champions of Character class combines physical activity with character-building lessons. Our Theatre Expressions class gives children a safe place to express themselves. We also incorporate a creative writing segment that allows children to process their thoughts about the trauma they experienced in the wake of a natural disaster.

We understand that natural disaster affects the whole family. Where most recovery programs focus on rebuilding after physical and structural damage, our program focuses on restoring psychological and emotional health. At the SPARK Academy, hundreds of families affected by Hurricane Harvey participate in the art, music and play program that provides children a safe place to talk and process emotional trauma brought on by the devastating hurricane.

Community Service Brigades

The HOPE worldwide Community Service Brigades are volunteer teams that provide a wide range of healthcare and medical services, education, child development, social services, disaster relief, recovery and risk reduction and community development and empowerment. Community-based service brigades build long-term partnerships with local churches to equip them with the tools needed to combat the effects of extreme poverty in the communities they serve. They conduct extended programs for orphans and vulnerable children. HOPE worldwide volunteers provide direct relief and recovery, and assist local HOPE worldwide chapters, member organizations, community agencies and church partners. Currently, brigades serve in Honduras, Guatemala, Mexico, Puerto Rico, El Salvador and the Ivory Coast. Over the past 10 years, the Community Service Brigades have provided approximately 36,000 patient visits and 58,000 prescriptions at free medical and dental clinics throughout Central America and Africa.

During an initial needs assessment visit to San Pedro Sula, Honduras at the end of 2009, HOPEww directors saw firsthand the vast scope of medical and dental needs of families in Central America. They determined that trustworthy outpatient medical care should be the focus of the brigades. Most residents in this country earn less than $300 per month and cannot afford access to quality and reliable medical care. As we head into our tenth year, we look back and see that the goal to provide a continuum of care for thousands of patients has been accomplished. Chronic diseases like diabetes, heart disease and hypertension – as well as frequently undiagnosed parasite infestation – have been treated with trustworthy medicine and follow-up medical care.

Over the past 10 years, the Community Service Brigades have provided approximately 36,000 patient visits and 58,000 prescriptions at free medical and dental clinics throughout Central America. Serving in the same communities for ten years has ensured a continuum of care for the CSB patients, who receive examinations and treatment that includes over-the-counter and prescription medicine as well as multivitamins and medications. Many of these patients, chronically sick and suffering with diabetes, hypertension, GERD and parasite infestation formerly went without benefit of this desperately needed medicine because they could not afford it for themselves or their children.

HOPE worldwide has established and managed medical facilities and clinics that provide excellent and compassionate medical care to those in need. The Sihanouk Hospital Center of HOPE (SHCH) in the capital city of Phnom Penh and the Sonja Kill Memorial Hospital (SKMH) in the southern city of Kampot are two centers where Cambodian citizens can receive high quality affordable medical care. Since 1996, HOPE worldwide's medical work has offered over 2.2 million consultations to the poor and helped train over 5,000 medical professionals.

We provide high quality and affordable medical care to Cambodians, regardless of economic status. We also provide meaningful training and experience to Cambodian medical professionals. In 2018, HOPEww programs treated more than 220,000 patients. We expect the patient count to increase in 2019.

As a result of HOPE worldwide's efforts, mother and child neonatal health in Cambodia continues to improve. At the beginning of 2018, the maternity department averaged just over one delivery per day. This number tripled by the end of the year. Because of the impact of the Sonja Kill Memorial Hospital in Kampot, the hospital welcomed over 1,000 successful live births. The current birth rate averages over 80 healthy babies per month. The Women's Health Center sees about 200 expectant mothers per month for prenatal care. In the case of premature deliveries, the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit saves the lives of mothers and children. Over 100 babies have received lifesaving care in the hospital NICU in the past year.

SOUTH AFRICA

Early Childhood Development

Located at 22 sites in 7 cities throughout South Africa, the HOPE worldwide Early Childhood Development (ECD) programs focus on care and education for orphans and vulnerable children, social services, and volunteer mobilization.

Research shows that 90% of a child's brain is fully developed by the age of five. This makes the need for early child development imperative, and we work with both parents and preschools to provide vulnerable children with the best possible start in life. With this goal in mind, we established a new HOPE worldwide ECD network for preschools. In 2018, over 25,000 children were served and supported. We are registered as an accredited training organization by The Education, Training and Development Practices Sector Education and Training Authority of South Africa.

HOPE worldwide SA is partnering with KFC-Add Hope, a non-profit foundation, to make a difference, and we recently hosted the global CEO of YUM! Brands, Greg Creed, his leadership team and their South African counterparts at one of the many ECD centers we support. The food company provides important nutritional support to help students learn. This support also frees up funds to support teachers and expand the services the centers can provide. The program reaches over 18,000 children every month.

Worldwide effort and support produces local results. Joyce Nxumalo, a 59-year-old grandmother from Daveyton, was a member of a Parent Support Group who later pursued training for herself and became a parent group leader. She then enrolled in college at UNISA to study Early Childhood Development. Equipped with a quality education, she now serves as a community worker for HOPE worldwide South Africa.

Foundation HOPE worldwide BOLIVIA

Foundation HOPE worldwide Bolivia (FHwwB) provides social service programs to Bolivia's most marginalized populations. Through our collaborative work with several partner organizations to promote positive child and family development, we were able to help over 10,000 children and their families in 2018. We hosted nearly 200 international and local volunteers who generously donated over 10,000 hours to our programs, which include a mobile library and educational assistance.

Centro Médico Internacional HOPE (CMI) medical clinic provides high quality healthcare and medical training for local physicians and nurses in La Paz, the capital of Bolivia. One hundred percent of the clinic's profits are used to support the social programs. The clinic also trains and employs Bolivian nationals to staff our medical clinic, which helps to support our social programs. Volunteers also repaired and served in an orphanage and public school, impacting over 400 children. In 2018, CMI HOPE staff and international medical volunteers joined together with HOPE worldwide Volunteer Corps to provide free medical care to over 350 children in the rural Amazon community of Rurrenabaque.

HOPE worldwide Bolivia's educational work spans the country. HOPE's "B-Olivia" Library has lent over 10,000 books, magazines, and family videos to over 25 locations within La Paz and Rurrenabaque. The foundation also promotes early child and healthy family development with community based educational initiatives at orphanages, public schools and independent educational centers. FHwwB also offers English as a Second Language (ESL) classes to both children and adults.

Skyline After School Program Chicago, IL USA

In Chicago, HOPE worldwide initiated the Skyline After School Program in 2018 to serve the local community. Staff members and volunteers empower middle school students with the skills required to succeed in school, live up to their full potential, and in turn serve others. At Skyline, kids receive mentoring and assistance to discover their hidden talents. Volunteers, including college students from the neighborhood, offer homework tutoring, conduct Social Emotional Learning-based discussions and teach a variety of creative classes, such as art and stand-up comedy. Students are showing significant emotional growth. In the first semester of programming, participants showed a 23 percent improvement in healthy decision-making skills as a result of the guidance and support of the staff and volunteers.

Many young people from neighborhoods afflicted with poverty, crime and addiction have difficult home lives with little emotional support. Skyline has become a safe space for them. When asked recently about a highlight of the program, one girl excitedly replied, “I had a tough Thanksgiving break because of some things that happened with my family, but I’m happy now because I get to be around my friends. Everyone at Skyline helped me out today. That cheered me up.”

The 2018-2019 Skyline After School Program in Chicago, IL successfully completed 3 sessions of tutoring over the course of 22 weeks. Over 2,200 hours of service from staff and volunteers served more than 240 scholars. On average, there were 15 volunteers per day assisting, totaling 235 volunteers over 22 weeks.

PROCUREMENT

The Procurement Department of HOPE *worldwide partners with other non-profit organizations to provide in-kind donations for medical facilities and disaster relief. Procurement has provided annual support in Cambodia for the Sihanouk Hospital Center of HOPE (SHCH) in Phnom Penh and Sonja Kill Memorial Hospital in Kampot since they opened. Procurement also funds the Community Service Brigades in Tijuana, Mexico and throughout Central America. The primary focus is funding healthcare and medical services, disaster relief, recovery and risk reduction. Most importantly, Procurement works to build a gifts-in-kind (GIK) program to benefit men, women and children worldwide living in extreme poverty and in dire need of medical services.

Since the inception of the program in August 1996, tens of thousands of people have been direct beneficiaries of the medicine, medical supplies, nutritional supplements, hygiene products and foodstuffs provided by HOPE *worldwide and its partners. Procurement has worked closely with our key partners such as AmeriCares, Direct Relief International, Heart to Heart, Blessings International, Feed the Children and Wine to Water. Through these generous partners, HOPE *worldwide's Global Procurement Department has secured over $11 million in in-kind contributions. These gifts have saved lives around the world.

Notably, Procurement has secured over $240,000,000 in medicine, medical supplies and equipment for hospitals in Cambodia and medical work worldwide since 1996. In 2018, together with our dedicated partners

AmeriCares and Direct Relief International, we facilitated donations of $10 million in GIK primarily benefiting the HOPE healthcare facilities in Cambodia. We also joined forces once again with the Disaster Relief and Recovery Program, and in response to the hurricanes on the Eastern US shores and Indonesia, we were able to provide foodstuffs and health and hygiene kits for thousands of victims.

After Hurricane Florence wreaked havoc in many parts of Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, HOPE *worldwide partnered with the owner of a local hotel to provide housing, food and medical care for 250 people who had lost their homes and possessions. HOPE *worldwide provided hundreds of pounds of hygiene kits, foodstuffs and water filters for these families. The families expressed how grateful they were for the support after this devastation.
