Expand Your Outdoor Experience

It's that time of year when everyone begins spending more time outdoors to shake off the winter blues. Whether it's providing the right outdoor seating or selecting the perfect catering equipment for your next big event, we've got you covered! Here are a few tips to keep in mind...

- Just like your dining room, patios should be updated every five to seven years to be kept modern.
- If you are in a hot or humid location, consider installing an outdoor cooling system or using large umbrellas to foster shade.
- Most outdoor events require some off-site food preparation. Purchase catering units that will keep your food at the right temperature until service time.
- Carefully plan your menu when choosing concession equipment. Check out other profitable concession businesses for inspiration.

Granita machines offer an easy way to expand menu offerings with profitable items. Granitas have a delightful crunchy texture due to the large ice crystals that are allowed to form during freezing. Many cream-based frozen desserts can be heavy or rich, but the basic granita includes water, sugar, and flavoring. Fruit juices and purees are common choices for flavoring. A granita is a light and incredibly refreshing dessert.

An accurate instant-read digital thermometer is an essential tool for success in the kitchen. It is best to choose one with an accuracy of 1°F / 0.5°C or better and a response time of less than 10 seconds. Another useful tool is a non-contact infrared thermometer. It is used for measuring the temperature of a sauce or the surface temperature of grilling meat, and you can use it simply by pointing the thermometer at your food and pulling a trigger.

Food Waste Disposers can play a big part in creating renewable energy. Many wastewater treatment facilities are adopting a technology to convert food waste to biogas, a methane-rich byproduct. These programs lead to environmental benefits from methane capture, renewable energy generation, and organic waste volume reduction.

The plastic drinkware of today can be stylish, modern and flexible. There is a range of materials available that allow for creative and eye-catching designs. Plastic glasses feature shapes, colors and patterns not available in glass. Plastic will not break as easily as glass, making it safer and more suitable for outside events. Plastic weighs less than glass, which has the added advantage of lower transportation costs.
