Pope at Angelus: the Path of Jesus Always Brings Us to Happiness

In a recent Angelus address at Saint Peter's Basilica in Rome, the Holy Father mentioned that even if we face trials, if we follow the way of Jesus, we will find happiness. The Holy Father reflected on the Gospel of the second Sunday of Lent, which recounts the event of the Transfiguration, when Jesus gives Peter, James, and John a glimpse of his glory, to confirm them in the faith and encourage them to follow Him and the path of the Cross.

"Jesus doesn't deceive us," Pope Francis told the faithful. Although we, like the Apostles at times were, can be scared and doubtful, this should never deter us from following our Lord. Francis stressed that when we follow Him, we will always find happiness. "The Lord," he rejoiced, "is able to transform us!"

The message for the disciples and for us, Francis said, is this: "Listen to him! Listen to Jesus. He is the Savior: follow him." Listening to Christ, in fact, involves taking the logic of his Paschal Mystery," which, he said, requires us making our lives a gift of love to others, in docile obedience to the will of God. "What we must have is an attitude of detachment from worldly things and interior freedom," the Pope stressed.

In other words, he continued, we must be prepared to lose our lives, in order to realize God's divine plan of salvation for all mankind. Before leading the faithful in the Angelus prayer, the Holy Father encouraged the faithful to stop and contemplate the face of Jesus "in order to accept the message," "put it into our own lives," and "be transformed in love."

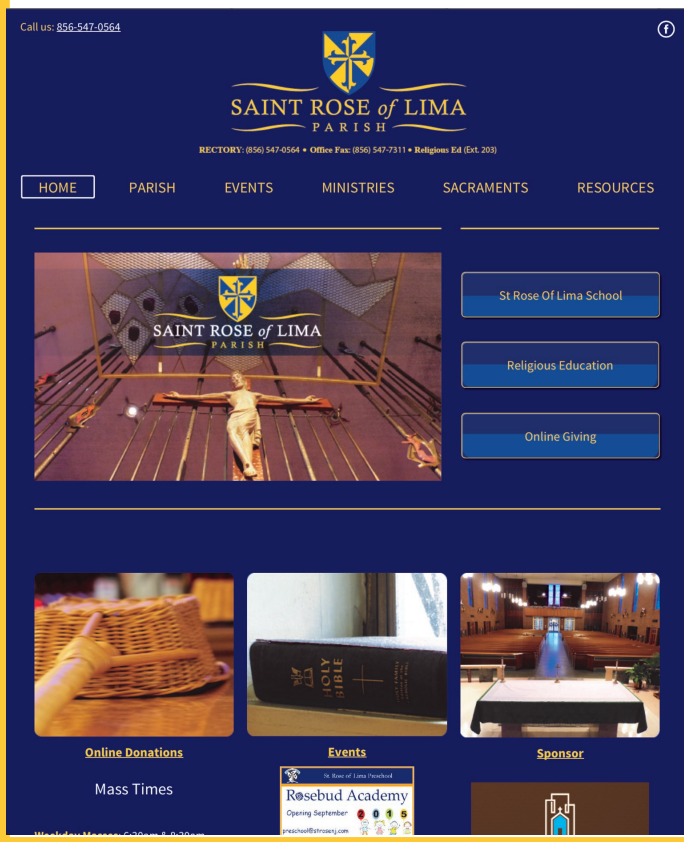

As we continue throughout our Lenten pilgrimage, it's important that we keep a positive spirit. We may have "cheated" here and there in our Lenten discipline, had that piece of cake, not prayed as much as we have planned, not been as generous to the poor and needy as we should. Even still, we have plenty of time left to make a good Lent. No need to ever be discouraged. As Pope Francis stated, we need to listen to the Lord and trust him. We do that by consciously disengaging ourselves from the world and its "stuff" and making the time to spend time with the Lord in prayer. That is the only way that we will be able to hear Him enough to be able to listen to Him. Continue to have a good and holy Lent.

God bless you,
Father Joseph Byerley
