

NEWS ALERT:

Tropical Storm Emily makes landfall, prompts state of emergency declaration in Florida

Business / Consumer News

Gourmet foodie shop brewing on Park Ave.

Restaurant reporter Kyle Arnold and food writer Lauren Delgado discuss the latest food news: Lazy Moon, Foodoku, North Quarter Market opening and Smiling Bison, Gardell Bros. Pizza and Antichoke Red market closing.

By Kyle Arnold · Contact Reporter
Orlando Sentinel

SHARE THIS

New flavor on Park Ave.: Fig & Julep shop coming from Ancient Olive owners

Sushi burritos

Sushi burritos have come to Orlando's Lake Nona district at the new Foodoko restaurant.

Yum Yum Asian Cafe founder Steve Kuo and chef Wei Hao Chen partnered for the sushi restaurant.

It opened Tuesday on the ground floor of the Lake Nona Veteran Affairs Medical Center.

Creative sushi options and South Pacific dish called poké are a fast-growing part of the restaurant world, with sushi bowls and burritos taking off. Poké is similar to ceviche, where fish is marinated in citrus juices.

<http://www.orlandosentinel.com/business/consumer/os-cfb-retail-restaurants-1114-20161109-story.html>

ADVERTISEMENT

Related

Central Florida restaurants that have failed health inspections

JUL. 11, 2017

Open for business: Orlando-area retail and restaurant openings

APR. 18, 2017

Closed for business: Orlando-area retail and restaurant closings

APR. 7, 2017