LETTER FROM THE PUBLISHER

Welcome to Tlaquepaque (Ta•la•ka•pa•kee), the most distinctive arts and shopping experience in the Southwest with art treasures, unique gifts, entertainers, tasty food and treats ready to be discovered around every corner.

Authentically fashioned after a traditional Mexican village, Tlaquepaque, an ancient Aztec word meaning the “best of everything,” has been a Sedona landmark since the early 1970s. Home to local and international artists, artisans, gallery owners, and shopkeepers, our arts and shopping village is a place where year-round you can spend hours discovering. Still, spring is one of my favorite times to do this. The sky is bright, the trees and flowers are blooming, animals are reappearing. There is a sense of awakening that can be felt throughout Sedona and our village.

This enlivened feeling is at its height during our spring events and celebrations, including our annual Cinco de Mayo fiesta and Great Sedona Chili Cook-off held this year on Saturday, May 2, 2020. We encourage you to join us as we celebrate with local entertainers, great food, and other not-to-be-missed festivities. Learn more about this event on page 20 or go to tlaq.com for a full calendar of our spring and summer happenings.

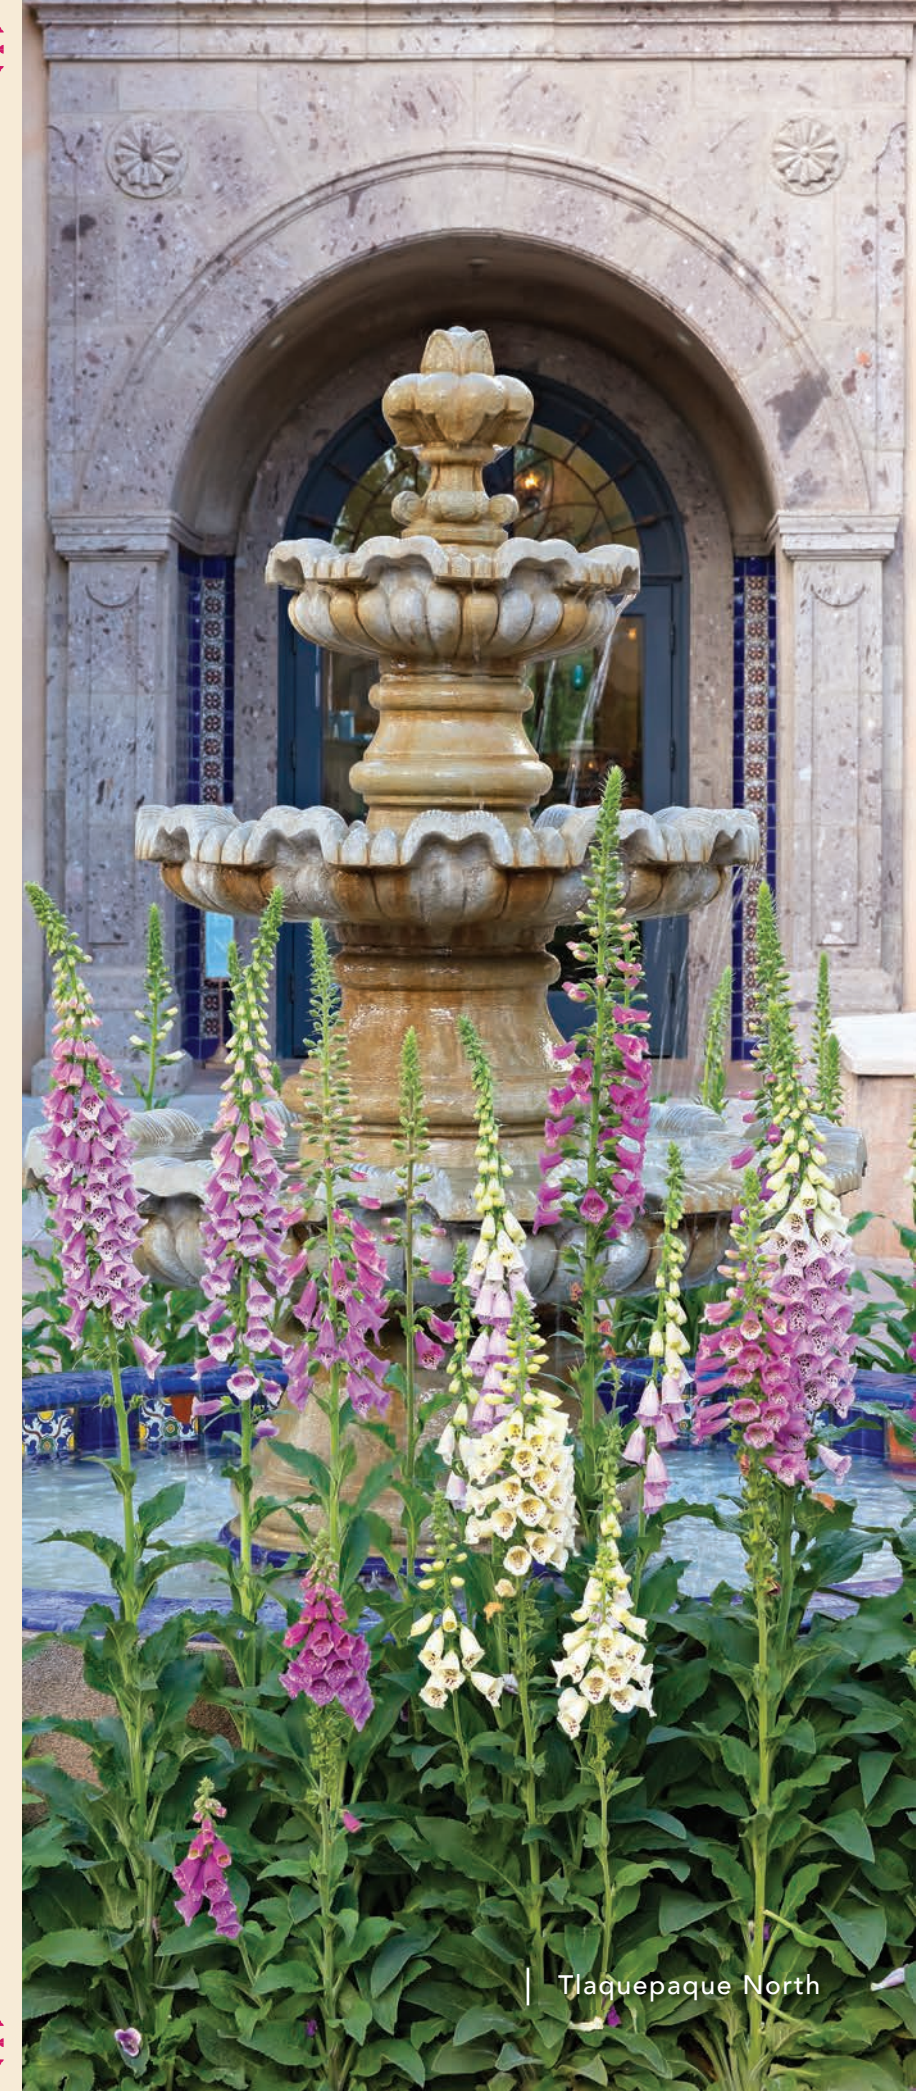

Whether you have an hour, an afternoon, or a day, there is always something to discover at Tlaquepaque—the heart of Sedona.

I hope to see you here soon!

TA-LA-KA-PA-KEE

The Abe Miller Story

VISIONARY, DEVELOPER, LOVER OF THE ARTS

| Calle Miller

“Buildings must be built to echo laughter, dancing and singing. Candles, barrels, flickering fires, fountains and flowers are what architecture is all about.”

Abe Miller

In the 1970s Sedona had only one stoplight and the area was mostly an open range, but visionary businessman Abe Miller saw the potential for more. A traveler, Abe had spent time in Mexico where he became enthralled with its vibrant arts scene—in particular, that of a small arts and crafts village outside of Guadalajara that would become our village’s namesake, Tlaquepaque (Ta-la-ka-pa-kee). It was Abe’s dream to establish a place for artists where they could collectively create and sell their work.

At that time, Abe also fell in love with Sedona. In particular a unique piece of property on Oak Creek with a distinctive 100-year-old sycamore grove. He knew he had found the place to bring his arts and crafts village to life. It took two years of being persistent, but Abe finally acquired this piece of land from its owners Harry and Ruby Girard, assuring them that their beloved sycamores would remain untouched (a promise he kept and that we continue to honor today).

To express his vision, Abe collaborated with a gifted and unconventional local architect, Bob McIntyre. As the story goes, Bob, Abe, and Bill Herrick, the contractor, flew Abe’s plane all over Mexico and ventured into small villages to photograph, sketch, and document their look and feel. They studied how they were constructed—the materials, their structural components, detailing and flow—with a goal to build Tlaquepaque as authentically as possible. They photographed thousands of scenes from rural villages and sketched dozens of vignettes of Spanish Colonial architecture.

When Bob and Abe came upon a small village, they would sit and watch for hours, coming to know the importance of how people, gardens, fountains, and trees shaped social interaction in a public space. They carefully studied the architecture. They were soul searching, discovering what life really looked like in rural Mexico and what architectural elements they should embrace, taking particular note of how the patios, courtyards, tiled walls, and plazas created natural gathering places for the villagers to sell their crafts and mingle together. They began to bring artifacts reflecting Mexican culture back to Sedona—iron grillwork, huge carved doors, handmade lanterns, clay pots, and benches were incorporated into the architecture to create the genuine feel and spirit of Tlaquepaque.

| Abe Miller

In keeping with his unconventional ways, Bob McIntyre purposely hired only amateur artisans and self-trained plasterers, chosen for their heart and enthusiasm for the project. No professional stonemasons were on the crew. He gave tremendous artistic freedom to the workers who “loved to be turned loose on a wall and watch it grow under their hands.” If they weren’t happy with their day’s work, Abe allowed them to tear it down and start over. “Forget the plumb, use the thumb,” was a favorite saying on the construction site. Very little of Tlaquepaque was sketched out on paper. Everything was eyeballed, keeping the basic orders of columns and capitals, but allowing for variables. It was all part of what gave Tlaquepaque its authenticity and unique charm.

Patio Del Norte

THE LEGACY CONTINUES

In 2015 Tlaquepaque North, located on the other side of Sedona's highway 179, was carefully built to maintain Abe and Bob's original spirit and authentic design.

Here too, no detail was overlooked. With its gracious central fountain, stuccoed walls, hand-painted murals, tiles, elegant archways and pavers throughout, the new structure gives the impression that it too has stood there for years. Signature giant Sycamore trees and colorful flower beds add to its inimitable style. A beautifully renovated former cobblestone home can also be found on the grounds. The only structure that was retained during the renovation, it is now home to one of Tlaquepaque and Sedona's most loved restaurant, Pump House Station Urban Eatery and Market.

The shops and galleries of Tlaquepaque North have been carefully curated to add to the visitors' experience, providing them with even more choices to explore and discover what the arts and shopping village has to offer. Sophistication and style abound. Come to visit and see for yourself.

LOCATED AT THE HEART OF SEDONA, TLAQUEPAQUE OFFERS A PLACE FOR ART COLLECTORS, DISCERNING SHOPPERS AND GUESTS TO EXPERIENCE A RARE TREASURE AS THEY CELEBRATE ART, ENTERTAINMENT, BEAUTY, AND COMMUNITY.

Kim Weiss - Owner

Sedona has a rich, ever-evolving history that is ready to be explored. From its land formations to the town and its people, the natural beauty and original spirit of pioneering and preservation continue to draw people to this Arizona Jewel.

The geological history of Sedona dates back over 500 million years ago as Oak Creek Canyon and the Red Rocks land formations slowly formed into what we see and enjoy today. Visiting them allows you to observe the layers of time that have passed as the wind, rain, and snow have carved out and created these natural wonders.

The local lands have also been inhabited by people for many years, starting with the hunter-gathers who made it their home over 6,000 years ago. They were later home to the Sinagua, ancestors of the Hopi Native Americans, who between 900 and 1350 AD lived here in Pueblos and Cliff Dwellings. Marvelous evidence of how they lived can be seen today at the nearby Montezuma Castle National Monument, Honanki Heritage Site, and the Tizugoot National Monument.

The first Anglo settlers to Sedona did not arrive until the late 1800s, as pioneers moved west looking for land to claim. By the 1890's fifteen homesteading families had settled nearby Oak Creek. Among them were the Schnebly family, Theodore Carlton (also known as Carl or T.C.), and his wife, Sedona Miller, the eventual namesake for the town. They had come west from Missouri and claimed 80 acres of land where Tlaquepaque now stands. As the community continued to grow, Theodore recognized the need for regular mail service and opened the first post office in the area. The area needed a name. Originally Theodore suggested "Oak Creek Crossing" and "Schnebly Station," but they were rejected by the postmaster. Theodore's brother, Ellsworth, then suggested that Theodore name the town after his wife. On June 26, 1902, Sedona became the official name for this new community. While visiting, you can drive along Schnebly Hill Road and make a stop to hike to Sedona Hill Vista. Continue to the Schnebly Memorial Gardens located on the site that was the Schnebly's last home.

Schuerman Family Homestead

Homesteading continued in Sedona until the early 1940s, with farming being an essential part of how these families survived. The Walter and Ruth Jordon family farmstead grew apples that were sold as far away as Seattle, San Francisco, and St. Paul, Minnesota. George and Walter, their sons, developed an irrigation system that channeled water from Oak Creek. It later supplied the first commercial water to other Sedona residents. The Jordan farm remained in the family until 1976. A 4.8-acre park can now be visited at the Jordan Historical Park in Uptown Sedona at the end of Jordon Road. It features interpretive nature trails, picnic tables, a large fruit orchard, and the Sedona Heritage Museum.

The Schuerman family was another Sedona pioneering family that grew grapes and established the first commercial winery in Sedona, as well as having built the first school in the area in 1891 and establishing the first cemetery in 1893. The building that was their home is the last remaining intact house built by a Sedona "first family." The Sedona Historical Society currently has a campaign to save the Schuerman Homestead House so that it can be restored and opened for visitation. Descendants of the Schuerman family also have a partnership with the historical society, and Page Spring Cellars to revive the family vineyard by planting the Schuerman Zinfandel grapes at the Homestead. Someday soon, this Sedona legacy wine will once again be available for all to enjoy.

Another essential part of Sedona's history was its Golden Age of Western Movies, starting in 1923 with Zane Grey's silent film, "The Call of the Canyon." Since then the area has been the location, and often the backdrop, for almost 100 productions, including John Wayne's "Angel and the Badman," filmed in 1946, "The Rounders," 1965 starring Henry Fonda, and "Stay Away Jack," 1968 starring Elvis Presley among others. You can learn more about the history of moviemaking in Sedona in Arizona's Little Hollywood: Sedona and Northern Arizona's Forgotten Film History 1923-1973, a book by local Joe McNeill.

Movie Set

These activities attracted more people and recognition to the town and the awe-inspiring beauty of the area, including enticing celebrities such as President Herbert Hoover, Clark Gable, Susan Hayward, Jimmy Stewart, and Walt Disney, for whom it became a favorite destination.

By the 1960's retirees started to come to the area, as did artists looking for a peaceful and inspirational place. Tlaquepaque, established in 1971 by Abe Miller as a place for artists to create and commercialize their work, played a role in encouraging this influx of artists to the area. Featured in this issue on page 33 is one of its original galleries, Esteban's. Art and the artist community of Sedona continue to be an integral part of the town, its history, and the building of its future.

THE VIBE OF SEDONA AT THE OAK CREEK BREWERY AND GRILL

CRAFT BEER, CREATIVE FOOD AND GREAT COMPANY

There is a palpable energy when you walk through the doors of the Oak Creek Brewery and Grill with its busy barman, animated guests, and servers carefully buzzing by with enticingly full plates of their tasty food and drinks. A favorite hangout for Sedona locals and visitors, expect the staff to kindly greet you as you walk in or for your fellow guests to eagerly make room for you on the barstool beside them. A part of the community since 1995 when the Oak Creek Brewing Company, first opened in West Sedona, Oak Creek Brewery and Grill is the perfect gathering place for Sedona visitors, families, and returning friends.

Now a Sedona institution, Oak Creek Brewery started as just an idea in the minds of its owners Fred and Rita Kraus when they experienced their first Microbrewery in Bavaria, Germany in 1985. The road from there to tapping their first keg in Sedona was highlighted by lots of learning, including an apprenticeship at a small craft brewery in the Franconia region of Germany, an area known for its unique dark, bitter brews and for having the largest density of breweries in the world. Fred spent 18 months in this haven for beer lovers learning all he could at the Brauerei Hufeisen (“Horseshoe Brewpub”) in the small village of Pottenstein. The Brauerei Hufeisen has brewed the Wiegaertner family’s closely held beer recipes since 1738, and Fred got to learn many of their secrets directly from Josef Wiegaertner, also a graduate of the prestigious Doemens Brewing School near Munich.

Having learned the craft of micro-brewing, The Kraus’s moved their family to Sedona in December of 1993, bringing a bit of Bavaria with them. After 14 months of getting the brewery up-and-running, the beer started flowing, and it hasn’t stopped since.

Beers made at Oak Creek Brewery and Grill are all malt and naturally carbonated using the German technique called ‘Spunding.’

There are no adjuncts used, nor is any carbon dioxide ‘forced’ into the beer artificially after fermentation. Their beers are made with just the classic ingredients of hops, barley, water, and yeast. Their precise recipes allow them to create highly consistent and always enjoyable products and the foundation upon which to develop seasonal delights.

With a desire to expand their winning concept further, Fred and Rita opened Oak Creek Brewery and Grill at Tlaquepaque in 2001, pairing their high-quality, expertly crafted beers with innovative pub-style foods that share the same attributes.

“TLAQUEPAQUE IS AN ARCHITECTURAL JEWEL, DEDICATED TO ARTISANS CREATING HAND-CRAFTED, UNIQUE PRODUCTS. RITA AND I FELT THAT OUR HANDCRAFTED BEER AND QUALITY AMERICAN GRILL FARE WOULD COMPLEMENT THESE CORE ASPECTS PERFECTLY.”

— FRED KRAUS, OWNER

Almost all items on the menus are made from scratch with care, creativity, and high-quality ingredients. Their award-winning, always-on-tap and seasonal beers are brewed on site on the ground floor and direct-draw from the Cooper Tanks seen gleaming behind the bar. Guests can enjoy a drink along with their famous wood-fired pretzels (over 2000 of these pretzels have been served!), the Red Rock Rack of ribs with housemade barbeque sauce, or another selection from the mouthwatering options on their lunch and dinner menus.

Oak Creek Brewery and Grill does not take reservations. The grill sports a patio where you can chill out with friends and family while enjoying amazing Red Rock views. You can also take a little bit of your Oak Creek Brewery and Grill experience home with you with their mix and match six-packs and growlers. A must visit place to eat, drink and take in the vibes in Sedona. Come soon, come often for a great all around experience and a warm Red Rock welcome!

SHOPPING VILLAGE ON SATURDAY, MAY 2, 2020

All are welcome to join us for our annual festival celebrating Mexico's rich culture and heritage. Enjoy the rhythm of Flamenco and Latin beats, the sounds of the mariachi, and the swirls of dancers performing throughout our village.

Cinco de Mayo—which translates to the Fifth of May—marks originally the date of Mexico's surprise 1862 victory over the French at the Battle of Puebla during the Franco-Mexican war. Over the years it has become a highly celebrated holiday in the United States to commemorate Mexico and its eventual independence.

Come to celebrate with us! A free event for the whole family. Get ready for enthralling Flamenco music and dancing performed by renowned local performers, Gaetano Mosaico Flamenco. Be wowed by the talented dancers of Ballet Folklórico, a dance troupe of all ages, twirling and swirling in vibrantly colorful, time-honored costumes. When they dance they tell stories of the rituals and dramatic events form Mexico’s past, as well as its diverse culture and folklore. Enjoy the voices of traditional vocalists ringing out throughout our arts and shopping village, and stroll alongside the roaming Mariachi. Activities for children will include face painting and the highly anticipated breaking of the piñata. Traditional Mexican dishes and treats will also be available for purchase from local vendors.

| Spirit of the Canyon

Eclectic Image Gallery is home to the work of husband and wife team Elaine and Duane Morgan. Fine art photographers, their arresting images capture the awe-inspiring beauty of the nature around them and transports their viewers. Masters of their craft, they offer an engaging range of work including; exquisite color images, black and white photography, hand-tinted black and white images, and a myriad of impressionistic and mixed media works of art. Professional photographers since 1973, their experience, training, and natural-born talent combine to create a unique vision and degree of expertise that few photographers will ever obtain.

As Duane explains, “Photographing a scene isn’t about walking around looking at something and snapping an image. It’s about seeing something in your mind and thinking, ‘if I were to paint this scene what time of year would it be? What time of day?’ Then having the patience to come back to that location again and again until Mother Nature matches your idea of a perfect image.”

This approach is demonstrated in Duane’s photo, “Spirit of the Canyon,” taken of the Grand Canyon during monsoon season. It took him 15 years, returning again and again, to capture this instant. “We had gotten many photos of the canyon over the years,” Duane explains, “but this moment was the perfect combination of weather, lighting, having something near and something far, and an amazing lightning bolt.”

Similar to this is Elaine’s photo, “Twilight at the Crossing,” shot in a location the couple had visited hundreds of times. This image, taken just before sunset when the light was low and the colors were particularly beautiful, captures a great moment. “The Moon was in the sky, and there was a beautiful reflection in the water of Cathedral Rock,” Duane remembers, “Elaine was standing in the middle of the creek with her tripod deep in the water, cable release in hand, waiting for the perfect light.”

| Twilight at the Crossing

This is what it takes to bring the beauty of their world to their collectors. To memorialize a breathtaking moment and transport viewers to that spot and place in time. This is what Elaine and Duane call a “mood-changing event,” and it’s what makes their work masterful.

Elaine and Duane, who met in high school in 1970, settled in Sedona in 1997. They had visited the area many times before deciding to make it there home. “We hiked the trails, we photographed the landscape and enjoyed the local shops, galleries, and restaurants. We recognized that it was a warm and welcoming community and that it was the perfect place to open our Eclectic Image Gallery.”

After that, selecting the location for their gallery was easy, Tlaquepaque Arts & Shopping Village was the only place they wanted to be. “Designed and built to be the best of the best, it is truly the Heart of Sedona,” the couple says. Their gallery became a quick favorite for art lovers looking to bring home a lasting memory of their time in the area.

Knowing how much their photography means to their customers is what fuels Elaine and Duane’s work. They tell the story of a couple visiting the gallery several years in a row and how they spoke about their love for the Grand Canyon. A number of years later, the wife came into the gallery alone. She walked over to “Canyon Storm,” a photograph taken by Eliane, and began to cry. “I have to have this image,” she told them. The customer’s husband had died that year, and the photograph brought memories of him back to her. At her request, Elaine and Duane custom made a 4’ x 6’ image just for her. It took a couple of weeks to print, mount, and ready it to ship. She called eager to find out when it would be sent to her, “I have painted the wall and had lights installed. I can’t wait for it to arrive.” These connections and the making of lasting memories are what’s important to them.

SPIRITS & SPICE

A place to discover, taste, and take home the world's finest oils, vinegars, wines, spirits and spices.

Spirits & Spice is a favorite store for visitors to Tlaquepaque. As the company notes, they are “a little bit sassy and a lot passionate about food,” making a stop in their shop on Tlaquepaque’s Calle Miller is a delightful, interactive, and educational experience. Here guests enjoy samples of unique spirits, liqueurs, spice blends, balsamic vinegars, and oils, carefully selected for them from around the world by Spirit & Spices’ team of foodies, liquor aficionados, novice cooks, and gourmet chefs.

A real labor of love, Spirits & Spice was founded by Kim Weiss in 2008 who’s goal was simple; provide the best quality products resulting in the best taste experience and opportunity to have fun while doing it. “Discover Tlaquepaque” talked to Kim about how her business came to be, her favorite products, and what she has in store for customers in the future.

DT: You have a diverse background, including working as a lawyer and actress. What brought you to this business? And being a foodie?

KIM: I’m an army brat that had the fortune of living all over the world. My dad was a great lover of food and wine. He encouraged me to try new things everywhere we went. I remember once he ordered octopus ceviche, meaning it was raw, and I wouldn’t eat it. He actually pouted. Food was important to him, and through him, it became important to me too. My grandmother also played a part in this. She cooked a lot of southern comfort foods, and she did it better than anyone I’ve known. Our family gatherings were always surrounded by delicious food. Because of them, for me food means family, love, and exploration.

DT: Your store is filled with delightful items. Which is your favorite? The product that all visitors must try?

KIM: That would be our Calamansi Balsamic—it goes on EVERYTHING. I put it in water, vodka, gin, rum, tequila, salads, marinades, and sauces. Everything from my Sweet & Tart Yam Pudding to mixed drinks. It is simply amazing.

DT: What's new to the store? Items that guests need to keep an eye out for?

KIM: One of our newest items in the store is a special spice blend. Team members from our Sedona store came to me and said their customers needed something for spicy chili. I put my head together with our spice guru, and we came up with our Leapin' Lizards Spicy Chili that can be used in chili, as a rub for your favorite protein, and for delicious BBQ recipes. You can find it in our stores now.

DT: We noticed that you take an environmental approach and look to be as sustainable as possible. Can you tell us about that?

KIM: We've always valued the idea of being environmentally aware. I'm really happy that we use glass bottles that can be refilled with oil or vinegar as the first step. With our packaging and shipping, I tried to not use bubble wrap for a long time by using newspaper instead. Unfortunately, there was a lot of breakage, and I reluctantly had to go back to it. Then a customer came into our Sedona store and mentioned that he had developed a wrapping material called Hex wrap. It's made from recycled paper, doesn't require tape, and is biodegradable. Eureka! I sleep better at night knowing that we are contributing less to the world's landfill. We will continue to try to reduce waste and do our part.

DT: Do you have any exciting plans for the spring/summer and the future?

KIM: We have an exciting new year planned. We hope to be doing a Sedona Chamber of Commerce Mixer in the spring. We are also working on opening a new location in Chicago at the Water Tower Place. Our projected open date is November first. Stop by to see us there too.

In regards to the future, our goal is to continue to bring in exciting new products as we develop or source them from the innovative vendors we work with around the world. We want to also continue to give back to the communities that we are a part of, like Sedona, and become vibrant members through charitable events, contributions, and by supporting our local team members so they can have work-life balance. They are the backbone of what we do and ensure that all guests to our shop have a fun, engaging experience as they explore our offering. Come by, you'll see what I mean.

HONSHIN

WRITTEN BY TOM VITRON

The iconic, otherworldly places of beauty that illuminate and elevate human well-being seem destined to inspire and harbor creators that reflect their essence. In Sedona, an international city of peace known globally for its legendary red rock vistas and mystique, this enchanting place of beauty is Tlaquepaque Arts & Shopping Village. Within this special locale reside the galleries of Nicholas Kirsten-Honshin's, where works from this internationally acclaimed modern icon of Zen art reverberate with the peaceful harmony of this can't-miss destination at the heart of a revered and renown land of layered red beauty.

While here, you might get a chance to meet Honshin (as Nicholas is also known) roaming in and around his galleries. Interaction with his inspiration, as well as establishing a connection to those who engage with his work, is key to his process. Carefully observing and lucidly reflecting the known parameters of existence, Honshin's intention is to communicate the unity of consciousness and life in all things in the Universe. He does so using his trademark fusion of East and West, visual media – including painting, printmaking, sculpture, and jewelry – complemented with lyrical compositions that add dimension, meaning, and connection beyond what can be seen. His poetry is also a conduit for his near-giddy enthusiasm in sharing contemplations on all pertinent topics of observable life. Honshin's words are as positive as his visuals but do mirror the grand realities of life's eon-long trends and cycles.

Both his visual art and his poetry reflect his experiences with ancient Eastern spiritual practices and the philosophies of Christianity, Tibetan Buddhism, Zen Buddhism, and ancient Mesoamerican cultures. "Simply put, my work is a mythic amalgamation of ancient healing practices and present trends in spirituality, science and nature," he explains.

Stewards of Sedona International City of Peace, Honshin writes on their website that they believe a culture of peace is one that "respects and connects our shared humanity and ignites a social spark to form new and inspired traditions and ideas that uphold the highest values of the human heart." Fittingly, the painter's name "Honshin," a Japanese word, means the original mind is the heart. This revered name was bestowed by his father Daiensai Kuden Bonseki Dojin, also a renowned artist and an ordained Buddhist Monk, after the approval of two Zen Masters in Japan. You can find selected pieces from his father's equally renowned collection at the galleries. Gravity, attraction, connection. Call it what you want. The heart knows it when it senses it. Honshin's work is from a pure heart and reflects true beauty and the "healing connectedness of all cultures."

To foster connection amongst this mecca of peace he proudly calls home, and to communicate and enhance the message of his visual works, Honshin hosts a poetry reading as part of his galleries' First Friday offerings. The inspiration for his visual works sometimes lies within the grasp of language. Many are accompanied by a poem that could be chicken or egg to the final piece, either the initial inspiration put in words or inspired by the final visuals, reflecting the cyclical state of conscious creativity his Zen art embodies.

His poetic output also flows from his conscious wanderings and reflections on life as we know it. There is no better way to connect with longtime patrons and newfound aficionados than this event.

A Seattle native, Honshin now lives in Sedona with his wife and business partner, Krystal. They have been proud tenants of Tlaquepaque since 2010.

Be it the soothing, meandering serenade of adjacent Oak Creek, the peaceful reign of the exalted ancient rock formations above, or the mighty and enchanting Sycamore guardians all around, Honshin's work fits in sublimely well at Tlaquepaque.

MUSIC AT TLAQUEPAQUE

PATRICK KI AND HIS GUITAR

"Patrick ranks among the finest acoustic fingerstyle players...his musicality renders his technique invisible, leaving the listener with pure melody, harmony, rhythm and a sense of wonder as to how easily the music connects on all levels."

-Guitar Player Magazine

Visitors to Tlaquepaque can experience the melodic rhythms of resident musician, Patrick Ki, an accomplished acoustic guitarist, composer, and recording artist, who performs an instrumental blend of Latin jazz and popular music. Patrick, also known affectionately as the Relaxation Guitar Maestro, is a native of Hawaii. His work is deeply influenced by his Hawaiian roots and its renowned slack key guitar, giving his music a smooth, soulful, unique sound that has delighted listeners for over thirty years.

A long-time member of the Tlaquepaque community and one of its leading musical artists, Patrick is featured regularly as a Latin jazz and flamenco musician at the arts and shopping village. On clear-skied days he can often be found delighting crowds under the ivy-covered arches of the Patio de las Campanas. Patrick's solo performances combine virtuoso musicality with a warm, witty sense of humor that makes for a memorable experience. He is also a featured regular at "Flamenco in the Courtyard," where he expertly plays a gypsy ukulele with his fellow Tlaquepaque resident musician, Gaetano Frankel, and Latin percussionist and singer, Erica Delgadillo de Coronado.

A highly versed artist and adept collaborator, in addition to his work at Tlaquepaque, Patrick performs extensively in concert and at music festivals with other musicians and bands, including the 3MKI band and Dusky Groove, two local Verde Valley favorites.

As Founder and Recording Artist for the digital record label, RMW Artists, Patrick has released over 30 compilation albums of beautiful, relaxing instrumental music, featuring his compositions and that of over 20 other talented recording artists. Patrick's goal for RMW Artists, founded in 2012, is to serve the world by presenting beautiful, soothing instrumental music that enriches people's lives; and to serve a community of fellow musicians by helping them create a sustainable living. This work once again demonstrates Patrick's dedication, artistry, and love for music and its enjoyment by others.

Come to Tlaquepaque and discover his talent and the joy of music with him. On warmer days he can often be found serenading a crowd in one of the village's many beautiful patios.

A TLAQUEPAQUE ORIGINAL

ESTEBAN'S ARTISINAL POTTERY SHOP

"OUR FIRST SHOP WAS IN THE C BUILDING," NANCY RECOUNTS, "ABE BUILT A SPACE OUT FRONT OF THE STORE FOR STEVE TO PUT HIS KILN. WE WOULD FREQUENTLY HAVE KILN OPENINGS ON SATURDAY MORNINGS, AND VISITORS WOULD CROWD AROUND AS WE TOOK THINGS OUT AND PUT THEM ON THE TABLE FOR SALE."

In 1973, fresh out of college, Steve and Nancy Scagnelli, the owners of Esteban's, packed their belongings up and decided to move from Chicago to Colorado. Along the way to their new home, they made what they believed would be a quick detour to Scottsdale, Arizona to visit Steve's parents. While there, they happened to pick up a copy of the AZ Republic. In it was an article about this place in Sedona that had just opened and was looking for artists and craftsmen to join open studio-shops. This place was Tlaquepaque. Steve, who was an amateur potter that had sold some of his pieces, and Nancy liked the idea of owning their own business, so on a whim, they decided to go to Sedona to take a look. They fell in love with what they saw, and after meeting with Carolyn Reynolds, the daughter of Tlaquepaque's founder Abe Miller, regardless of having no previous retail experience, they decided to open an artisanal pottery shop. Their lease was signed and they moved to Sedona on August 24, 1973, also Nancy's 24th birthday.

In the beginning, they offered only Steve's pottery and other items they had made. One of their top-selling products was a hanging macramé planter with a grow light on top that they created together, Nancy doing the macramé and Steve making the planters. Today Esteban's features functional and decorative handcrafted pottery from small producers that Steve and Nancy predominately curate from Arizona and the southwest.

They have fond memories of the original Tlaquepaque, a place where artists, musicians, and young shop owners came together to build a unique, casual community. At that time, a "gone fishing-back soon" sign could often be found hanging on a shop door while its owners went for a swim in the swimming hole off Brewer road. Although Tlaquepaque has grown up since those early days and is no longer as casual, it is more beautiful than ever and a must-not-be-missed destination to visit in Northern Arizona.

"I NEVER THOUGHT WHEN I MOVED TO SEDONA ON MY TWENTY-FOURTH BIRTHDAY THAT I WOULD BE HERE FOR MORE THAN A FEW YEARS. BUT WE STAYED, AND IT TURNED OUT TO BE A GREAT DECISION — IT'S A WONDERFUL PLACE TO WORK AND A WONDERFUL COMMUNITY TO LIVE IN."

LET'S EAT OUTSIDE

FIVE DINING FAVORITES AT TLAQUEPAQUE

Story and photography by Wib Middleton

Forty-six years ago Abe Miller, visionary and founder of Tlaquepaque imagined a bustling arts village rich in south-of-the-border culture that brought the community together through festivals and family-friendly events. As the village has evolved, so have the options for exceptional dining experiences. Patio dining is in full swing and it's the perfect time of year to be outside, shaded under the coolness of the giant sycamore trees or colorful umbrellas. Dinner at Tlaquepaque under the stars with moonlight squeezing through the enormous sycamore canopy is a marvel to experience.

Whether it's elegant bistro dining at René, tapas and margaritas at El Rincon, handcrafted beers and BBQ ribs at Oak Creek Brewery and Grill, delicious summer salads and grilled paninis at Secret Garden Café, or exceptional brunches, fabulous coffees and a fun eclectic menu at the new Pump House Eatery, it's all here for your dining pleasure.

THE SECRET GARDEN CAFE

Enter the Secret Garden Café and find yourself in a shimmering, dappled light setting that envelops you in lush greenery. Sit alongside fragrant flower beds and a cool grassy oasis under abundant shade from towering pines. If just sitting there is quite therapeutic, then the healthy fresh cuisine is beyond nurturing. Offering a sumptuous menu of creatively prepared fresh ingredients, with gluten free and vegan selections as well, the Secret Garden Café is the perfect choice for breakfast, lunch or dinner. Specializing in soups, gourmet salads, sandwiches and famous Quesa "Divas" and much more, be sure to consider a gloriously sinful dessert item. And check out the specialty Kona coffees, teas, juices, wines and beer.

OAK CREEK BREWERY & GRILL

Oak Creek Brewery and Grill in Tlaquepaque is known for its award-winning premium brews, brewed on site and stored in highly polished, custom copper serving tanks behind its classic oak bar. The fabulous brews, big cozy booths, wood-fired pizza oven, high-energy open kitchen, and fantastic views, makes it the perfect gathering place for Sedona visitors, family and returning friends. Its popular second story patio with red rock views has bar style seating around the patio perimeter, a larger central table and smaller two-person tables that create an intimate, protected outdoor space that fills up quickly.

SUITE D201 • (928) 282-3300

RENÉ RESTAURANT

René Restaurant has been a Tlaquepaque fine-dining favorite since 1977 when it was one of only two restaurants in town. The menu at this elegant European-inspired restaurant is a blend of Continental Cuisine coupled with a hint of a classic French influence introduced some twenty-five years ago by original owner/chef René Baudat. For wine lovers René is exceptional. Wine Spectator has given René the "Award of Excellence" since 2003. The wine list is impressive with over 165 different labels, old and new world offerings, with expanded French, South African and California vintages. Cradled in an intimate shaded courtyard with plenty of bistro tables, a special summer afternoon menu served from 2:30 to 5:00 for patio patrons has just the right balance.

SUITE B118 • (928) 282-9225

PUMP HOUSE STATION
URBAN EATERY & MARKET

The Pump House is a Sedona locals favorite, and for good reason. With its rustic retro urban vibe, the place feels immediately familiar. The staff is super friendly and relaxed and there are two great options for patio dining. Try the tables and high tops under the cozy front porch or head to the back patio dining area where bar seating faces an oasis of green grass and giant sycamores. Coffees are first class as are the sinful pastries, if you're on the go. Brunch fare is unexpectedly delicious and lunches and dinners hit the mark always. Craft beers and specialty wines with a full bar while enjoying the great outdoors is simply the best.

Tlaquepaque's restaurants are committed to providing dining experiences that are memorable.

It is highly recommended to make reservations on Friday and Saturday evenings and during special events, such as Day of the Dead and Luminarias when the locations fill up quickly. All of Tlaquepaque's restaurants are pet-friendly with animals allowed to participate in outdoor dining experiences. Management does require that all furry friends remain on a leash and close by their owners at all times.

No matter what you are in the mood for, there is always something delicious to discover at Tlaquepaque.

EL RINCON
RESTAURANTE MEXICANO

El Rincon is a Tlaquepaque icon. Intimate and charming, the ambience is warm and friendly with a soothing and colorful décor. The outside patio is shaded by big bright umbrellas and is the perfect setting for casual dining. Serving traditional Mexican food with Navajo influences, El Rincon's "Arizona Style" is truly unique. Chimichangas, the house specialty, are made with sopapilla masa folded around beef, chicken, shrimp or green chili and beans. They are then deep fried and served enchilada style with Spanish rice and beans, or a sumptuous guacamole salad. Sundays through Tuesdays, El Rincon celebrates "Flamenco Music in the Courtyard" featuring Gaetano, Spanish guitar master, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m., through the summer months, weather permitting. Treat yourself to tapas or your favorite beverage from their patio bar.

Elegantly chic is the best way to describe bride, Taylor Simon, who married groom, Thomas Posso, on May 18, 2019, at Tlaquepaque under the ivy-covered arches of Patio de Las Campanas. Following the ceremony, an intimate reception under the Sedona stars was held on the Patio del Norte Terrace, where friends and family dined and danced into the night. A perfect setting for a the beginning of a perfect union.

CORNER

TLAQUEPAQUE IS A PET-FRIENDLY ENVIRONMENT

Our mascot, the golden retriever Floyd, can often be seen tail wagging as he makes the rounds of our courtyards and patios, greeting visitors and ensuring that all is well.

He and the staff of Tlaquepaque want to remind you that pets are welcome on our grounds and should not be left in your cars, especially during the warmer months. However, they must be kept on a leash at all times for their safety and that of our other guests.

Thank you and we hope to see you soon!
