Linda Nunes
Bio

Linda is an award winning artist who grew up in California's Bay Area. Her art journey began with collage, acrylic and encaustic and most recently, cold wax. Her contemporary style has unexpectedly moved to a more playful and honest take on life. Still, you may recognize elements of home, the human condition and often, a little foolishness. She works primarily on cradled wood panels using a variety of media. Linda's work has been shown throughout California as well as other US states. She is currently showing work in Santa Fe.

Linda's art degree is from CSU, Sacramento. She works from her studio in Rancho Cordova, California where she lives with her husband and a handsome but self-absorbed feline named Ira Solomon Nunes. Workshop information and additional artwork can be viewed at her website: www.lunesart.com
