112 80 key Duwyn cafe orchestrion

Reymond Duwyn was an employee of the famous Th. Mortier factory, who built the most famous dance organs and café orchestrions in Antwerp, Belgium. He left the company and started his own business in Wilrijk, Belgium. In comparison with Mortier, Bursens or Decap his output was very small and mostly limited to clients in the region. The organs had a particularly sweet and mellow "warm" type of sound and due to the limited numbers produced a very high-quality finish to the pipework. We do not know, how the organ made its way to America, but unfortunately the original front got lost in transit.

114 Bruder Elite Orchestra Apollo Fairground Organ

The 65-key Bruder Elite Apollo Fairground Organ was originally imported by the Berni Organ Company, a New York importer of Gebrüder Bruder organs in 1912. It served on a Hershell-Spillman Beer Garden carousel at Coney Island, New York until it was sent to the BAB (Ervista Bona, Andrew Antoniazzi and Dominic Brugnolotti) factory in Brooklyn, NY for a conversion to play the 66-key BAB music roll. The restoration included the addition of 22 bronze tuned bells around the Spillman logo. The full history of the organ was published in the COAA "Carousel Organ" June 2009. The organ attracted thousands of visitors at the Carousel Plaza of the Lake Amusement area at the New York World's Fair in 1964. In 1981, Jerry Doring purchased the organ, which has been warehoused since from Jim Wells with a fantastic original Bruder statue. In 1984 the restoration for the Apollo Organ began by the late Louis Suierveld formerly of Norwalk, CA. It was decided to replace one of the double BAB roll frame so the organ could play Wurlitzer 165 music rolls as well as the BAB 66-key rolls, giving the organ an incredible range of classic and popular music. The final touch was given to the organ by renowned restorers Hayes McClaren in Fresno and Johnny Verbeeck in Belgium and was concluded in 2004. The outcome is an exceptional beautiful instrument of refined tone and quality. It is in fact two organ in one, since it is able to play the 165 Wurlitzer and the 66 BAB music rolls, giving the organ two different characters. A fantastic and rare piece of Organ History. 265.43 cm x 393.7 cm x 130.175 cm.

This special vehicle was ordered by Dr. Ing. h.c.F. Porsche in Stuttgart from the vehicle manufacturers of the Ruthmann company in Gescher-Hochmoor at the end of 1982. The inclined pallet truck (type SD 875) fascinates by its hydraulically collapsible rear wheels, which allow the entire loading area to be lowered to the ground - what makes loading of low sports cars much easier. To be able to carry out this complex conversion, the 608 D even had to be converted to front-wheel drive! On June 27, 1983, the transporter was first registered by Porsche, and was used for vehicle transport in and around the factory for the next 19 years. On June 24 2002 the Mercedes was deregistered, and in September of the same year it was registered again by its second owner. After another German owner, the vehicle was taken out of service for several years before it was imported into Switzerland in 2018. The inclined pallet truck has a loading area of 5.75 meter and an electric winch. With a total weight of 7'490 kg the payload is 3'250 kg. Copies of the original order documents and technical specifications are available. The 3.8-litre diesel is running, the transporter drives, and the hydraulics of the collapsible rear wheels is working. Once restored, this 608 D is a great transporter for every Porsche collector or a historic racing team. The car comes with German documents and Swiss customs duty paid. Ex Toffen Switzerland, viewing only by appointment.

The St. Regis was presented in 1955 to well-off American buyers as a luxury hardtop coupé. Its nicknames were among others "The 100 Million Dollar Look" or "America's most smartly different car". At least that's how this vehicle was advertised. It was named after the most luxurious hotel in the world, the St. Regis in New York. In addition to the absolutely breathtaking design, the gigantic dimensions, this two-door coupé also impresses with its Hemi V8 engine, which was already able to produce 250 hp in 1955. That was very, very impressive for that time. Power 250 hp, top speed 175 km/h, 0-100 km/h 15 sec.

203 Mills Violano Virtuoso

“The Mills Novelty Company out of Chicago is mostly remembered for the Violano Virtuoso and the arcade and gaming machines. Born as the “Mills Automatic Virtuosa” in 1905 its inventor- Henry K. Sandell developed the idea further and in 1912 the Mills Violano Virtuoso started to become a big success. This is what the advertisement said: The world’s greatest musical attraction. No composition is too difficult for the Violano-Virtuoso. Classical, operatic, and popular music are all equally well played. Every note is clear, full and true. The faults common to other automatic players are all successfully eliminated. It is without doubt the musical masterpiece of the day. The Violano-Virtuoso may be best defined as a violin with piano accompaniment. The violin is played by a finger-like arrangement of electro magnets operated by a small motor. Where other companies in the mechanical music field used pneumatics, the Violano is operated with only electro magnets. Jerry’s Violano bears Serial # 1530 and really plays very nicely. 162 cm x 105.41 cm x 75 cm.

Only a very limited number of high standard organs were built and Julius died in Enghien in 1948 at the age of 80.
