

What is self-exclusion?

Self-exclusion is an industry-operated program for people who want to ban themselves from playing electronic gaming machines (the pokies).

The Australian Hotels Association Victoria and Community Clubs Victoria (CCV) work together to provide a self-exclusion program that covers clubs and hotels with pokie machines in Victoria.

Do you have a gambling problem?

- Do you think about gambling every day?
- Do you hide your gambling from loved ones?
- Do you ever borrow money to gamble?
- Do you let bills go unpaid?
- Is your gambling affecting your work or role as a partner or parent?

How do I know if I should join a self-exclusion program?

When you join the program, you agree you will not enter the restricted gaming area of the clubs or hotels you have nominated. These venues are listed in a self-exclusion deed that you sign. The deed authorises venue management to take reasonable steps to remove you from the restricted gaming area of these venues.

How do I know if I should join a self-exclusion program?

Ask yourself: "Have I ever had an issue with gambling?" If the answer is yes, you could benefit from joining the program.

How do I join?

Phone AHA (Vic) or CCV to make an appointment to sign a self-exclusion deed and have your photo taken.

- AHA (Vic)
03 9654 3491
- CCV
03 8851 4949

Languages other than English

Interpreters can be organised to attend the self-exclusion interview with you.

Many ways to get support

What happens when I join?

A letter with a copy of your photo is sent to the clubs and hotels listed in your deed. The venue adds your photo to their list of self-excluded persons and your name is taken off any player loyalty rewards programs.

How long can I be on the self-exclusion program?

You can be on the self-exclusion program as long as you like but you have to sign a new deed and have a new photo taken every two years.

Can I go to a club or hotel if I am excluded from the gaming room?

You can enter and use the hospitality and sporting facilities however, once you have joined the self-exclusion program, you cannot enter the restricted gaming areas for any reason.

What If I go back into the gaming area of a venue listed on my deed?

When identified by a member of staff as being on the self-exclusion program you will be asked to immediately leave the restricted gaming area. Going into this area is a breach of your self-exclusion obligations. You will be reported by the venue staff to the AHA (Vic) and Community Clubs Victoria self-exclusion program manager.
