

Upcoming Event:

The families that Sol Levinson & Bros. has served since the beginning of the pandemic have not been able to sit, grieve, and pray together as a community in the traditional, therapeutic manner in which we have historically sought comfort.

To help in some way to fill the void of grief in these unusual times, we invite you to a virtual community-wide memorial service. Please join Rabbis Joshua Gruenberg, Chai Posner, and Jessy Dressin, along with Cantor Ben Ellerin, on Wednesday, May 19, at 7pm for a virtual memorial service that will include memorial prayers and ritual.

Additionally, we will read the names of loved ones who have left us during this time. Following the memorial service, Donna Kane, M.A, JCS Grief Clinician, will discuss ways to grieve and cope as the pandemic continues.

You are welcome to join for all or part of this gathering. Please see our blog post for full details and important links.

Resources for Families & Our Community

part of a healthy grieving process. Kavod HaMet - respect for the dignity of the deceased - has always been the highest principle of Jewish burial, and adhering to that is always our main goal.

Levinson's is actively working to do everything possible to ensure meaningful burial services, out of respect for the deceased and for their family. While there are certain restrictions right now, we urge you and your families to focus on the importance of what can be done, and to make use of the power of modern technology.

We have created a special web page, where we are able to provide resources to help families during this unprecedented time.

This site offers:

- Information on all the ways to make a funeral meaningful in these unusual times
- Resources - such as online prayer books - to aid in hosting a virtual shiva service
- Notifications of upcoming virtual programs relating to grief and loss
- Thoughts on how to support grieving families
- Links to memorial books and shiva pages
- Links to planting memorial trees, and more.

Levinson's Response to COVID-19

We are living in exceptional and challenging times and, as you know, we at Levinson's take the current situation very seriously. While we maintain communication with government agencies and are working diligently to reduce exposure to both families and staff, our goal will always be to provide compassionate funeral service to all those we serve.

Funerals are a fundamental part of a healthy grieving process. While there are certain restrictions right now, we urge you and your families to focus on the importance of what can be done, and to make use of the power of modern technology.

Please see below for upcoming events, resources and information regarding our services.

New Website to Come This Summer

Information regarding the release of our new and improved website was emailed to the community earlier this year. Since coping with the pandemic, its release was delayed.

However, we are pleased to announce that we will now be introducing our new website this summer. Updates to come!

Advance Planning: A Gift to Your Family

We've recently heard from many people who have questions for us, finding they now have a little extra time to think about things.

Are you working on retirement planning and want to know how a funeral factors into your financial plans? Curious about cemetery options? Just have some questions about various types of services we provide? Want to find out what questions we would need answers to, so we don't need to ask them of your family down the road?

Talking to us ahead of time can greatly impact your family's experience at the time of a loss.

You don't need to be ready to decide everything. Our goal is to provide you with the information you need in order to make the best decisions for yourself, at whatever speed you are comfortable.
