Ayr Photographic Society was founded at the start of the 20th Century and has been nurturing the art and science of photography over the intervening decades.

The images presented within this exhibition are captured digitally allowing the photographer to easily store the results or to print in the manner of a traditional film-captured picture.

During the Covid pandemic the Society has continued to meet weekly via Zoom with the unanticipated bonus of enjoying presentations from photographers throughout the UK and beyond.

These photographs are the result of the club's annual digital projected images competition which was judged by Neil Macgregor LRPS, DPAGB on 11th March 2021.
