S02-E03 UNCLEAR PRIORITY BOSSES

The Omission of Clarity of Vision, Direction, Priorities

Bosses who neglect to provide necessary clarity of vision, direction, and priorities create a sense of instability and anxiety in followers.

We all feel most comfortable when we know where we're going, why it's important, and how we fit into that plan. Nothing is more unnerving than wondering if what we're working is what our boss is expecting.

Here's an article by Jacqueline Smith posted on Forbes that describes 17 Tips for Working With A Disorganized Boss. You might find it helpful.

Conflicting messages can also come from your boss. This can also be disconcerting. We found this helpful article from inc.com that provides several helpful ideas for dealing with this situation.

Self Reflection:

Can I identify the top three things my boss wants me to deliver this week, month, year?

If I'm unclear about the vision of my current organization, have I shared that honestly with my boss and asked for clarification?
