Accredited Calibration services for the medical and pharmaceutical sector

Pullman Instruments have a long history working with the NHS and associated medical, biomedical and pharmaceutical companies throughout the UK.

The UK health service is going through a time of increased pressure. At Pullman there is recognition of the pressures that this sector is under and our aim has always been to offer a single supplier solution, helping to improve on the procurement process.

Our expertise includes the UKAS temperature profiling of product storage facilities (fridges, freezers and incubators) in all departments within the NHS, and other medical companies who are involved in the treatment and well being of patients.
