

9 WEEKS

Vaccines are given 3 weeks apart, starting at 9 weeks or older. These protect against:

Cat Flu, Feline Enteritis and Feline Leukaemia Virus

During the first vaccination our vet will carry out a health check, discuss flea treatments and discuss cost saving measures such as our Pet Health Plan and Insurance.

2 WEEKS

Kittens can suffer from intestinal worms even from a few days old. Worms can be transmitted to humans so we will recommend a wormer appropriate for your kitten's size and age. We advise the following worming frequencies:

- From 2 to 12 weeks
- worm every 2 weeks
- Until 6 months old
- worm every month
- When 6 months or older
- worm every 3 months

- Second vaccinations
- Microchip - now is good time to keep your kitten safe with a microchip.
- Worming treatment
- Flea treatment

14 WEEKS

Your kitten is now able to go outside and explore the big wide world, but we do advise that females are kept in until neutered to avoid unexpected pregnancies.

- Neutering - we advise booking your kitten's neutering operation if there are no plans to breed.

Cats are induced ovulators meaning they can become pregnant as soon as they are mated and females can have one litter by multiple males. Neutering requires a short general anaesthetic and a surgical procedure.

- Microchip - can be done while your cat is asleep (for their neutering operation) if not yet microchipped.
- Worm/flea treatment
- Free weight check

HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

From 1 year onwards your kitten needs the following:

- Annual health checks
- Annual vaccination boosters
- Worming every 3 months
- Monthly flea treatment

There are several different products available and we are happy to help you find the one that suits you and your cat.

Feeding

Getting diet right is extremely important for young animals, to ensure correct growth rate and weight gain. We advise controlled portion meals of a high energy density complete diet. Our Registered Veterinary Nurses (RVNs) have lots of great experience of pet nutrition and will recommend a suitable diet and feeding frequency for your pet at each different life stage.

Kitten Care
