

ALLERGIC CONTACT RASHES

Allergic contact dermatitis is caused by a reaction to substances called allergens that come into contact with your skin. In susceptible people, these contact allergens can cause itching, redness, and blisters that is known as allergic contact dermatitis.

Read more about allergic contact rashes on the EczemaNet website.