A WORD FROM DR. STEWART

The Relationship Between Weight and Oral Health

It's that time of year when we all reflect back on last year and check on how our New Years resolutions are going. Many of us have that one resolution every year that we make and often times don't keep... and that is losing weight. As many of you already know, my wife Judy and I have a weight loss clinic in Columbia named Figure Savers. It's been in business for over 5 years now! The clinic has been a great success. At this writing it has recorded over 13,991.55 pounds lost.

So why am I writing about this?

Weight and oral health are synonymous. Too many carbohydrates damage both. The average American diet is now loaded with them! Not only have the obesity levels gone from less than 10 percent of the population to 35 percent in less than 3 decades, the tooth decay rate in children has gotten worse in that same time period. On a larger scale, and more concerning, are cancer rates. Cancers linked to type 2 diabetes (caused by too many carbs) such as esophageal, rectal, post-menopausal breast, endometrial and gallbladder are on the rise.

So where should you start? Attend a free workshop on Tuesday nights at Figure Savers and learn about how your body uses food for energy. Then with that knowledge, take better control of your diet and your health. It is that easy. You can visit them online at figuresavers.com. I'll see you there!

Sincerely in health,
Dr. Daniel Stewart

MISSION STATEMENT

Our mission is to help people put their past bad dental experiences behind them. We accomplish this through care, understanding and knowledge. We strive to make our patients comfortable and relaxed, and free of all excess pain. When a patient comes to us, possibly frightened or embarrassed about dental problems or a lack of regular dental care, our goal is to make them immediately comfortable. Over time, we aim to completely remove their fears of dentistry and to fully restore each of our patients to optimum dental health. We know that in doing so, we are helping each of our patients toward the goal of a healthier and happier life.

We are always accepting new patients.

Our oral health plays in to our overall health. The case for good oral hygiene keeps getting stronger and stronger!
