Custom Rust Protection

Why rust protect a new vehicle?

Your new car or truck is subject to the corrosive elements of pollution, road salt, dirt and moisture. These harmful elements eat away at the hidden metal panels where you can't see. By the time rust perforation appears on the outside of your vehicle, major structural damage has occurred. The unsightly rust corrosion spoils the appearance and greatly reduces the resale value of your new car or truck.

How is the Ming protection better?

The new vehicle warranty by Ming protects against rust far beyond the factory warranty. That's because there are hidden areas that are prone to rust and can only be protected from rust corrosion after final assembly of the vehicle.

Custom Rust Protection by Ming involves the use of two materials. First, an innerbody sealant is directly applied to the hidden body joints, seams, and sheet metal areas where rust most frequently begins. Next, a tough abrasion-resistant sealant is applied to the undercarriage that protects against rust and deadens sound too. Both materials are bonded to the metal of your new car or truck for long-lasting rust protection.

Do certified technicians perform the work?

Yes. Ming trains and certifies its technicians to insure the proper application methods on all new vehicles. These technicians are specialist using data reference manuals to determine the internal structure of each make and model. As a result, a thoroughly professional custom rust protection service is performed on your new car or truck.

What makes it the world's best warranty?

Ming Custom Rust Protection guards more areas against rust than any other process available. To prove it's the best, the Ming Warranty provides for the complete repair of any damage caused by rust from the inside out on your new vehicle regardless of mileage or number of claims.

Free Maintenance Inspections

To insure the best long term protection for your vehicle, we offer regular check-ups at no charge to you. Every two years we provide a visual inspection, re-spray inner body sealant as required, an undercarriage pressure wash and undercoat touch-up, and finally a complete hand wash and towel dry.
