New website debuts this month

By July 29, the experience of logging on to westernhomecommunities.org will look and feel different.

A new website is soon to be unveiled, featuring "responsive design," which means it automatically adapts to whatever device is being used - desktop, tablet or mobile phone - and formats for each user to have an optimal viewing experience.

Statistics show tablets and mobile phones are being used more often than desktop computers to search the internet. The scales tilted in mobile's favor less than two years ago, and website technology quickly caught up to the new reality.

"We're excited for a colorful, fresh look and easier navigation, so people can find what they're looking for faster," explains Chief Communications Officer Linda Bowman. "Having a responsive design also makes updates much easier to manage, so we can change information easily and frequently."

Mobile optimization is increasingly important as people search for skilled care from hospital rooms, or even while traveling after a visit with aging parents.

Be sure to check the site late this month for a new look, new content and new features!

Michelle Charamy

Nathan Cook

The verb "exorior," Latin for "to spring up, to appear," captures the essence of the duo's work: through their collaborations they seek to create new musical meaning in older repertoire and to be a catalyst for the springing forth of new works.

Chaplain's Corner: Time with Jesus and courage

by Rev. Tim Boettger

A full and meaningful life includes being a part of something bigger than oneself. If that something serves a grand and noble purpose, it becomes even more meaningful. While in college I assessed all the things that could capture someone's time or energy. What captured me the most? The eternal kingdom of God. I was captured by all that the Bible taught about eternity, the purpose of our life here on earth, the good news of Jesus and our call to be a part of what God is doing in the world. I was shocked when I started to sense a call into ministry. When I evaluated all the options before me, it only made sense to give my life to that call.

Eventually my life mission statement would become, "To glorify God and advance His kingdom in all that I say and all that I do." I certainly have not lived this out perfectly, but I'm happy I made this my mission because it has been a meaningful journey.

Why am I telling you this? Because I believe God has made it possible for all of us to experience the joy of being used by Him in the advancing of His eternal kingdom here on earth. This is not just an opportunity for those of us in "full-time" ministry. It is a joy we were each created to experience in any walk or stage of life.

Listen to what the writer of the book of Acts tells us about some of the first individuals God used to advance His kingdom in the world in a whole new way, after Jesus' time on earth: When they [a crowd that heard them speak] saw the courage of Peter and John, and realized that they were unschooled ordinary men, they were astonished and they took note that these men had been with Jesus. (Acts 4:13)

Notice the four characteristics that Luke highlights about these two individuals who were greatly used by God.

- 1.) They had spent time with Jesus.
- 2.) They showed courage with what they had become convinced of and taught by Him.
- 3.) They were unschooled.
- 4.) They were ordinary.

It seems that getting to know Jesus, spending time with Him, learning from Him were the main things necessary for those who became useful to God, and lived full, meaningful lives. We can still do the same today! We know Jesus is alive and He has given us all the teaching we need to learn from Him in His Word. He has given us His Holy Spirit to teach and guide us. It's not about getting all the right schooling (though there is nothing wrong with that) or about being anything other than "ordinary." They spent time with Jesus, and stepped out in courage to share His love. God blessed their efforts, and their lives, as a result.

We shouldn't be surprised. "Jesus came that we might have life and have it to the full," (John 10:10). Don't you think Jesus wants the same for us as He did for them?

Save the date for international guest

Francis Njuakom of Cameroon, Africa, founded an organization in 1998 to take care of older adults in his neighborhood. With the goal of helping them live fulfilled lives, he started the work on a shoestring budget; it has grown to become the leading organization for elder work in this country of 22 million people.

He was recently appointed as a board member of the International Federation on Aging. Francis makes his first trip to the United States in August. He will be the closing keynote speaker at the international Pioneer Network conference in New Orleans and travel to Cedar Falls to spend the day with us August 9.

More details will be featured in the August Journal. Mark your calendars for that morning, and prepare to welcome Francis and learn from his inspiring story. You can also read more about the work at cdvta.org.

Vietnam veteran takes Honor Flight

Villa resident Ron Heth made his first trip to Washington, D.C. on May 24 as part of the 15th local Honor Flight, the first to include veterans of the Vietnam conflict.

Ron was part of a group that included four WWII veterans, 30 from the Korean War and 62 who served in Vietnam. They toured various war memorials in the nation's capitol, including the wall inscribed with the names of each service member who died in Vietnam.

Ron and other veterans choked up as they wound through a large, cheering crowd upon their late-night return to the airport. The Vietnam veterans recalled that they were not warmly welcomed home when their service ended four decades prior. For Ron, the experience helped provide closure to his time in the military.

Thank you for your service, Ron, and congratulations on being selected for the Honor Flight.

Platt garden bounty adds to quality of life for Windridge neighbors

Strawberries may be available in grocery stores year-around, but, Windridge residents know it is worth waiting until each June for the vine-ripened strawberries cultivated and harvested by Jim Platt. His strawberry patch is one part of a flourishing garden that includes red, purple, black and yellow raspberries; pear, apple, cherry and apricot trees; tidy rows of carrots, kohlrabi, potatoes, radishes, beans, onions, ground cherries, zucchini and squash. It is a scene of abundance against a backdrop of five-mile views of Orange Township to the south and west.

Jim shows the berry set on a raspberry bush. At its peak, the garden and orchard yield was preserved in more than 100 quarts of canned fruits and vegetables.

Jim and Phyllis Platt retired and re-sized their possessions before moving from the farm to Western Home Communities in 2009. but Jim decided to retain the farm garden he has tended over his lifetime. He now enjoys sharing its bounty with new neighbors at Windridge. It's a 24-mile round trip from Windridge to his farm and well worth the cost of gallon of gas for the satisfaction, "therapy" and exercise of maintaining a huge garden. A visitor will see threefoot beans, Jim's 2016 experiment; that's not the vine, folks, it is the seed pod! Jim couldn't put a cap on his curiosity when the seeds were offered to him by a friend and fellow gardener from Cedar Falls.

It's a year-round enterprise, Jim said. Earl May, Burgess and Gurney's catalogs create stacks of hope in the Platts' home beginning in December.

The Platts' history in Orange Township precedes Hawkeye Community College, South Hills Golf Course, the waterpark and casino. "It was all farmland and a farmer could support a family on 160 acres. We did," Jim said. Jim's career arch has included innovation and successful business transitions that took advantage of agricultural trends. A second career beckoned when Jim reconfigured a highboy detassling machine into a highboy sprayer that could clear the crops for later season spraying of morning glory. Pretty soon he had one of the first commercial enterprises in the township with 68 farmer clients.

Quart after quart of perfectlyripened strawberries reward Jim Platt – and his friends at Windridge!

His next 25-year career was spraying lawns. That was followed by trucking for Wayne Engineering and delivering cars and trucks for Community Motors.

Four generations of Platts have called

Western Home Communities home; Jim's grandmother and mother lived at Stanard Family Assisted Living. Jim and Phyllis' daughter Laurie lived at Windridge before she passed away of brain cancer. "The kindness of the staff and fellow residents is a good memory of a very tough time," Jim said.

"I'm thankful that I can still enjoy the garden," Jim said. He gets to see his infant twin greatgrandchildren who live on the family farm. Thanks to Jim, they have the advantage of access to a farm garden producing fresh fruits and vegetables five months of the year. That's one sweet legacy!

You'll find Betty managing all things backstage at the July performances of "Singing in the Rain" at Waterloo Center for the Arts.

Betty Goettsch prefers backstage magic to theater footlights

Betty Goettsch has used her career and retirement to enrich the quality of life for thousands of students. Betty has brought the full range of teaching skills to each volunteer activity – and there are many over the 30 years that have passed since she retired from teaching chemistry, physics and advance biology at Dike. There is a theme: One very capable person at the front who makes a complex task (or learning experience) move smoothly.

Betty has volunteered in the Cedar Valley arts throughout her retirement. She was recruited to volunteer at the Waterloo Center for the Arts as a docent for the children's museum. Of course, Betty became very good at leading learning for kindergarten through 6th grade students. School trip organizers found out when Betty was volunteering so they could schedule their trip for that time.

Betty is well-known for her backstage leadership at the Waterloo Community Theater performances. When Betty is in charge, props, costumes and actors are ready when the curtain goes up. And when there is a glitch, she has the focus and fortitude needed to make quick adjustments that assure performance success. You might think a former teacher would relish a stage role, "I think it is more fun to make the magic happen back stage than to have a acting part," she said. If you see "Singing in the Rain," July 8-17, appreciate that Betty will be managing a large cast and – you quessed it – real rain on stage.

The World's Window shop in downtown Cedar Falls has also benefitted from Betty's volunteering.

She's been a World's Window volunteer since 1986 and currently serves as a clerk each Friday afternoon. In true teacher form, Betty's assesses shoppers' knowledge of the fair trade concept and teaches to any gaps in that knowledge.

Oh, there is more: Betty quilts with the United Methodist women on Tuesday mornings. She and her friends make more than 50 quilts each year for youth in the foster care program. They also make sure that each child baptized in their church has a quilt to commemorate the event.

At 93 and fully engaged, Betty is quick to express gratitude for all volunteering has brought to her life. "I just love the people I work with," she said, "I'm a well-loved, but spoiled rotten daughter of the Father. He has been good to me all my life." She adds, "Volunteering is the dessert of my life. It is pure pleasure and joy."

The community has noticed Betty's contributions and she's earned many awards. She hopes that any honor she felt for recognition is surpassed by the potential of her awards to inspire others to use their minds and talents to improve the lives of people around them.

Betty's apartment in Windermere includes a wall of awards: 8 over 80 recognition, lowa State University Alumni Service award, Volunteer Hall of Fame award, two Mayors Volunteer Awards, Hartman Reserve recognition, and more. She especially enjoys explaining the Dike varsity letter that includes captains' pins for all the extracurricular activities she coached during her teaching career. "You know all those extra-curricular groups that have non-paid coaching staff?" she asked. "I coached all of them!"

Words of Wellness: The power of

by Wellness Coordinator Amanda Lynch

your mind

Every day your mind works overtime to process the facts, faces and figures of the world around you. That capacity to learn brings joy and success throughout your life; good physical health and social health play a role in maintaining a healthy mind. Recent research has suggested that the brain's memory capacity is exponentially larger than previously believed. That's great news!

Daily attention to overall health will help your mind operate at its full potential. Below you will find a few tips to help keep your memory sharp and keep your mind as powerful as possible as you age.

Be firm on the basics: A healthy lifestyle helps you stay sharp. That means exercising regularly, managing stress, getting enough sleep and eating a diet with real whole foods will keep your mind in tip-top shape.

Keep an eye on the scale: Excess weight can be linked to memory issues, but the effects are not permanent. While we don't want anyone obsessing over the scale, making sure to maintain a healthy weight throughout life is an important piece to the puzzle.

Enjoy the ones you love: An active social life is good for your mind! Woohoo! Staying connected to family and friends will leave you less likely to have memory loss as you age. Strengthen your social network by having dinner with a friend once a month, calling a loved one more often, volunteering, or taking a lifelong learning class. The bottom line: Do something you love with the ones you love.

Walking for fun and fitness

A picture-perfect blue sky greeted residents from several buildings who participated in the annual Older Americans Month walk, organized by Northeast Iowa Area Agency on Aging and sponsored by Western Home Communities. They set off from the Cedar Falls Community Center and walked a mile through the vibrant downtown.

Scenes of Summer

From left, Maria Murphy, Kim Salmon and Katie Corson do some clowning around on Red Nose Day. All the efforts in support of that day raise support and awareness of children's charities.

Melvin Harms of MHC shares stories of his travels with students from St. Patrick School, who helped residents plant flowers in the courtyard.

Enjoying the new game room at Thalman Square are Tony Grundmeyer (left) and Ken Gaffney. The game tables are getting lots of use; one resident's daughter told "Mayor" Diana Lane, "Seeing Dad standing up playing pool again is so marvelous!"

June is perfect popsicle weather! MHC resident Michael Douglas and Karla Foust's son Colton bonded over frozen treats and talked about their favorite team, the Buckeyes.
