We Make Moray invites other sectors in Moray to learn from the arts

We Make Moray is looking for representatives from Health & Wellbeing, Tourism, Business and Third sector as well as Arts & Culture to take part in a peer learning event to Dumfries and Galloway Arts Festival in May 2019. The visit focuses on working in partnership across the different sectors in line with Moray's Cultural Strategy and also supports the recently announced Economic Strategy for the area.

The visit will focus on different sectors working with the arts to come up with creative solutions for public and economic benefit as well as identifying further opportunities for partnership working.

In Dumfries and Galloway, DG Unlimited and The Stove work to demonstrate and support the vital role creative practitioners and organisations have in contributing to the wellbeing and economy of communities. With the local support of DG Unlimited, the cohort from Moray will meet key players in the area and have a chance to explore as a cross-sector partnership.

Sandra Morrison, Place Partnership Co-ordinator said "This is an amazing opportunity for representatives from Moray to explore how cross-sector partnerships might benefit their practice. It's important to state that this isn't about replicating the work of others, each place has its own identity, this is about learning from others and exploring what could be developed in Moray."

The cost of travel and expenses will be funded by We Make Moray, with the understanding that those taking part in the exchange will share their experience, learning and ideas with others back in Moray.
