

COURSE OUTLINE

COURSE TITLE: Conduct disorder and ADHD
3

COURSE LEVEL:

DURATION: One day

Introduction

The course looks these two disorders in detail as they appear to be diagnosed more commonly these days. The two disorders both have related behavioural difficulties and often challenging behaviour and these disorders can be difficult to separate. The course attempts to give clear advice about what the two disorders are and how to work with young people who have these. The trainer will make use of group tasks and discussions; problem solving using case examples and feedback as well as direct teaching with some use of presentations.

Benefits of Attending

Learners will gain an understanding of Conduct Disorder and ADHD with an explanation as to the possible causes and symptoms which the conditions may present along with the ability and knowledge on how to take action to help manage the condition and access the appropriate responses and support services. Learners will explore the underlying causes and the impact behaviours have on others.
