News from the P.I.T. – Priest in Training

This week in the Gospel, Jesus' disciples ask him, "Teach us how to pray." Jesus responds directly, "when you pray: SAY..." It's almost shocking. As a missionary and now a priest, I've had several people come up and ask me "how should I pray?" My mind goes in many directions. Through the rich traditions of the Catholic Church we have many ways to pray; from Lectio Divina, to Ignatius spirituality, to the Rosary, Divine Mercy Chaplet to just name a few! And this is also not to dismiss the source and summit of our faith in the Eucharist in the Sacrifice of the Mass and Perpetual Adoration.

And yet, Jesus without hesitation teaches us the "Our Father!" Why is this so important? Christ, the Son of God, reveals the first person of the Trinity as Father! In the Alleluia acclamation we read from Romans 8:15 "You have received a Spirit of adoption, through which we cry, 'Abba, Father.'" To call God, Father reveals a relationship of love, but one of great challenge.

In the Hebrew tradition the children were to act on behalf of their parents. This carried into our Christian tradition. And if we are children of God, then we need to act like our Heavenly Father, which we hear in Scripture, "Be merciful, just as your Father is merciful" (Luke 6:36). We are being challenged in the prayer to act like God's children. This might give insight on the words the priest says right before we recite the Our Father, "We dare to say!"

17th Sunday in Ordinary Time Reflection

"Ask and you will receive; seek and you will find; knock and the door will be opened to you." This is a promise that anyone would love to hear. With these words Jesus comforts and reassures us. He suggests that we will be satisfied and welcomed and fulfilled. His message in today's Gospel assures us that our heavenly Father loves us even more than earthly parents love their children. So we can enjoy the security of knowing that God will take good care of us.

But God's care may not always look exactly the way we expect it to. His care for us is based on knowing what is best for us and what will make us flourish. And, sometimes, what we think we need isn't really best. It's important to keep this context in mind. This prevents us from understanding Jesus' words today in a selfish way. As the end of the passage makes clear, this asking and seeking that Jesus refers to is ultimately fulfilled in the gift of the Holy Spirit. Jesus is promising us that if we ask God for his Spirit, he will certainly give it to us, his children.

For most of us, we actually received this gift at our baptism. But have we taken full advantage of this? Although we may not realize it at first, in receiving the Holy Spirit we actually receive a whole host of gifts. With God's Spirit come the sevenfold gifts of wisdom, understanding, counsel, knowledge, fortitude, piety, and fear of the Lord. And the fruits of the Spirit as St. Paul lists them in Galatians 5 include love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, generosity, faithfulness, gentleness, and self-control. God knows that all of these gifts and fruits make us very well equipped for life on earth, and for eternal life in heaven! What more do we really need to ask for?

Please Pray With Us

On Monday evenings at 7:00 P.M. and on Thursdays after 8:15 A.M. Mass, we pray for our ordained. Please take some time to pray with us and bring your rosary.

If you need a rosary, I will provide one.

God Bless you

FAITH FORMATION

Faith Matt-ers

By Matt Pozen—Director of Parish Faith Formation

The History and Development of the Mass (July 24, 2016)

Last week we began looking at some of the key writings on the Eucharist from the Eastern (Byzantine) Church Fathers of the fourth century. Recall that a hugely important event happened in 313 AD: Christianity was legalized (and even favored) by the Roman Emperor Constantine. From this point on Christians were able to celebrate their faith more openly and publicly, they began to build churches, and the liturgy began to acquire some of the symbols and pomp of the imperial court.

Looking at the various texts describing the eucharistic liturgy in the 4th century, there seems to have been some variety in terms of the position of the priest at the altar. In some areas, in both the East and the West, the altar was freestanding and the priest faced the congregation. In other areas, the altar was placed against the back wall of the sanctuary, facing east, so that both priest and people prayed in the same direction. Facing and praying in the direction of the east was a powerful symbol of faith in the risen Christ, who scatters the darkness of night with the dawn of salvation. By the 6th century, in both the East and the West, the practice of having the priest face the people was abandoned, so that from then on churches were always constructed with the back wall of the sanctuary facing east, and the altar was placed against this east-facing wall. This continues to be the practice to this day in the Eastern churches. In the West, at the time of the 16th century Reformation, the Protestant churches rejected this tradition and adopted the free-standing altar (which they called a “communion table”), with the minister facing the congregation. In our Catholic tradition, the liturgical reforms of Vatican II (1962-65) adopted this same practice, with the priest at the altar facing the people.

Now let's turn to the Church in the western part of the Roman Empire, especially as centered in Rome, in the 4th and 5th centuries. By 350 AD Latin had replaced Greek as the official language of the liturgy in the West. St. Ambrose (d. 397), bishop of Milan in northern Italy, gives us the earliest reference to what would become known as the “Roman Canon”, the sole Eucharistic prayer of the western Church until Vatican II (1962-65): “On the day before he was to suffer, [Jesus] took bread in his holy hands, looked to heaven, to you, holy Father....Similarly, when supper was ended, he took the chalice, looked to heaven, to you, holy Father....Therefore, as we celebrate the memorial of his most glorious passion and resurrection from the dead and ascension into heaven, we offer you this spotless victim, this holy bread and chalice of eternal life. And we ask and pray that you receive this offering upon your altar on high through the hands of your angels, just as you were pleased to receive the gifts of your servant Abel the just, the sacrifice of Abraham, our father in faith, and the offering of the high priest Melchizedek.”

We can safely say that the earliest form of this Roman Canon probably dates to circa 350 AD, and by the time of the papacy of Gregory the Great (d. 604) it had developed its full form, which remains largely the same to the present day. This was the Eucharistic prayer that was used in Latin at every Catholic mass, from 600 to 1965. Immediately after Vatican II the Catholic Church composed three new Eucharistic prayers, one of which was based on the Apostolic Tradition of Hippolytus which we explored earlier, and the other two of which were based on Eucharistic prayers from the early Church in the East. A few years later the Church added two new Eucharistic prayers based on the theme of reconciliation, three for use with children, and a Eucharistic prayer for various needs and occasions that has four forms. Thus, in the current mass, the priest can choose from any one of these 14 Eucharistic prayers.

The earliest “sacramentary”, books containing the prayers said by the priest at the mass and other sacraments, probably date to circa 450 AD. These are usually named after the pope at the time: thus the Leonine sacramentary from the reign of Pope Leo the Great (440-461), the Gelasian from the reign of pope Gelasius (492-496), and the Gregorian from the reign of Pope Gregory the Great (590-604). This tells us that by 600 AD the priest was no longer simply praying extemporaneously at the mass, but rather was using time-tested prayers written down in the sacramentary. Still, there were a variety of sacramentaries in use throughout the Latin Church, and it was not until the Council of Trent (1545-63) that a uniform sacramentary was promulgated for the entire Catholic Church: the Roman Missal. Most of the prayers said by the priest today come from one of these early Roman sacramentaries.

It was probably during the reign of pope Gregory the Great that four key texts made their way into the Roman mass: the Kyrie Eleison (“Lord have mercy”), the Gloria, the Sanctus (Holy, Holy, Holy), and the Agnus Dei (“Lamb of God”). It was also about this time that the Eucharistic liturgy gained the popular title, “the mass”, in the Latin-speaking west. The word “mass” comes from the Latin word missae, which literally means “dismissal”. It probably refers to both the dismissal of the catechumens (those preparing for baptism) after the homily, and the dismissal of the whole congregation at the end of the liturgy. So it is interesting that the title for this most central ritual in our Catholic faith emphasizes our mission to bring Christ to the world. Having received the body and blood of Christ at the Eucharist, we are sent to be the body of Christ in the world.

MINISTRIES

Faithful Children are Formed

On July 26, we celebrate the feast of Saints Anne and Joachim, the parents of the Blessed Virgin Mary. Mary was immaculately conceived. This special grace saved her from original sin and its devastating effects. Therefore, her heart was safe from ever forgetting her creator. She lived for Him. As her earthly parents, however, St. Anne and St. Joachim probably wondered at the mystery surrounding their daughter and most likely realized more fully than most parents that she belonged to God first.

Thinking of this, one is reminded that all children belong to God first and foremost. The duty of parents is to help their children learn to pray to God, to raise their hearts to Him throughout the day, and to thank Him at night before resting in His care. Many families can attest to the fact that a "family that prays together, stays together."

What a beautiful opportunity we have here at Visitation to bring our children to visit Jesus, present in the Holy Eucharist at our Adoration Chapel. How happy it would make our Lord to see you...together!

Introduce your sons and daughters to their best friend and brother, the son of Holy Mary, Mother of the Eucharist.

There are open hours that could be filled by families looking to be whole and holy. Let the peace of Christ reign in your home!

Open hours: Friday, 5:00 P.M.; Saturday, 7:00 P.M.; Sunday, 5:00 P.M.

The Adoration Chapel is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. For more information, call Joan Taylor 630-530-8963 or Mary Lewis 630-941-9173.

Divine Mercy Corner

Jesus said to St. Faustina: "Tell souls where they are to look for solace, that is, in the Tribunal of Mercy [the Sacrament of Reconciliation]. There the greatest miracles take place [and] are incessantly repeated. To avail oneself of this miracle... it suffices to come with faith to the feet of My representative and to reveal to Him one's misery, and the miracle of Divine Mercy will be fully demonstrated... The miracle of Divine Mercy restores that soul in full." (Diary, 1448)
