OHMSS 1969 - 2019

In 1968, Peter Hunt set out to make 'the best Bond film ever', as he often described it. On Her Majesty's Secret Service was to become a different Bond film, having one of Fleming's best novels as its basis.

Hunt wanted to stay as close to Fleming's original story as possible, and had already been working on the script with Richard Maibaum during their work on Chitty Chitty Bang Bang. Fleming's novel could largely be split in two halves: There was snow action, which was to be filmed in Switzerland. Then there was also love action: A wonderful love story between James Bond and Teresa de Vincenzo. Hunt faced a serious problem when he read the book, only to discover most of the love action took place in fictional Royale-les-Eaux. Which region on our planet had close ties to both espionage and royalty?

Peter Hunt took his film crew to Portugal, specifically to the area around Lisbon. There he found some remarkable locations, that were simply perfect as the setting of James Bond's ultimate romance.

In Spring 2019, James Bond fans from around the globe will gather to celebrate the film's 50th anniversary. Together with members of cast and crew, they will be able to visit the filming locations in both Portugal and Switzerland. The event will be a unique celebration of Peter Hunt's James Bond film and the 007 lifestyle.

Travel and arrival suggestions:

PORTUGAL

Lisbon airport is served by many international airlines. Booking early will give you the best arrival time options and the best rates.

To get to Estoril, you might want to take a taxi (30 mins). Alternatively a rental car is a good option. Do keep in mind that the Palácio Hotel has very little parking options. Estoril also has a train connection with Lisbon. Please make sure you arrive in Portugal on time (which is Friday May 24).

SWITZERLAND

Piz Gloria is located on top of the Schilthorn mountain. Mürren is the nearest town and this is where cast and crew stayed in 1968.

Mürren is a car free town and can only be reached by cable car (from Stechelberg) and train. The airport closest to Stechelberg cable car station is Zürich, but do realise this is still a two hour car ride away. Trains run between Zürich and Mürren, but a rental car is another good option.

Stechelberg station has a very large car park. Weekend Only ticket holders should make sure to arrive in Mürren on time. The first event here is on Friday evening, May 31.

PORTUGAL -> SWITZERLAND (VIP COMBI TOUR)

Your mission is to get from Lisbon to Bern. TAP Portugal offers many daily flights between Lisbon and Zürich. Booking early will give you the best arrival time options and the best rates, starting as low as EUR 35 p.p. Other airlines like Easyjet fly this route as well. When you're at Zürich Airport, you should take the train to Bern, where you will arrive opposite Gumbold's office (Hotel Schweizerhof). While Thursday May 30 is the proposed day for this journey, you are free to leave a day early. The VIP tour includes one night at the Schweizerhof (Thursday to Friday) and continues on Friday morning, May 31 towards Mürren.

Do note that Portugal and Switzerland are in different time zones: Portugal is on GMT (like the UK), while Switzerland is on CET (GMT+1)
