Northeast Ga. School Systems Receive Grants from Local Response Fund

Fourth Round Deployed to Ensure School Systems Can Focus on Students

ATHENS, Ga. (Jul 8, 2020) – The COVID-19 Community Response Fund, hosted by the Athens Area Community Foundation in partnership with United Way of Northeast Georgia, announced its fourth round of grant distributions to the 14 school systems in the 12-county region today. The school systems are facing a multitude of expenses like necessary PPE, thermometers, and cleaning and sanitation supplies for return to classrooms, as well as resources like tablets, wireless hotspots and more for virtual learning potentials. This round of disbursements totals $72,000.

The fourth round of grants include equal grants to all school systems across the 12-county region, including:

- Banks County School System
- Barrow County School System
- Clarke County School District
- Commerce City Schools
- Elbert County School District
- Franklin County Schools
- Greene County School System
- Hart County Charter System
- Jackson County School System
- Jefferson City Schools
- Madison County School District
- Morgan County School District
- Oconee County Schools
- Oglethorpe County School System

Students in all of the region’s counties and cities faced a sudden departure from in-person learning during the most recent school year, disrupting the education of local kids. As a result students are facing a drop in learning beyond the standard summer slump, and with the unknowns of the 2020-2021 school year, school systems are facing more needs than ever. The grants from the COVID-19 Community Response Fund allows the school systems to use the funds to ensure safe and healthy ways to teach and educate their students.

The Athens Area Community Foundation and United Way of Northeast Georgia are grateful for the financial stewardship of more than 380 individuals, organizations and businesses. We are especially thankful for the major gifts and contributions from Betty and Davis Fitzgerald Foundation, CareSource Foundation, First American Bank & Trust, Foundation for the Carolinas, Georgia Power Foundation, Ross & Leigh Campbell with Georgia Skin Cancer & Aesthetic Dermatology, South State Bank, The Caterpillar Foundation, The Huffer Foundation, The Wilbur and Hilda Glenn Family Foundation, Truist, Zeist Foundation, and Athens Area Community Foundation Fundholders.

The fund is still open and accepting donations. Anyone can help by making a donation to the COVID-19 Community Response Fund. To make a donation, please visit www.athensareacf.org. Funds will be granted to highest needs areas and to organizations... based on data and community insights and assessments. The funding will not be restricted to current United Way of Northeast Georgia- or other collective nonprofit-funded organizations.
