WHAT IS GELATO?

Gelato is the Italian word for Ice Cream

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN GELATO AND AMERICAN ICE CREAM?

These are the five major differences:

THE FAT CONTENT: typical American ice cream cotains between 13 and 16% fat Italian Gelato between 5 and 8% while being processed.

OVERRUN or JIELD: American Ice Cream typically has between 80 and 100 % of overrun. Gelato between 25 and 50% that's why is so dense.

SERVING TEMPERATURE: American Ice Cream need to be served @ -10° F Gelato is served at 5° F; the warmer temperature allows the tongue to experience more taste and less shock.

TEXTURE: Due to its lower serving temperature and higher fat content American Ice Cream has a hard texture when served, with higher serving temperature and a lower fat content Gelato is served semi-soft.

FRESHENESS: typical American Ice Cream is stored in 3 Gallon containers for several weeks or longer for flavors that are not so popular Gelato is produced and stored in 5 Liters stainless steel pans and need to be consumed in few days.

THE ESSENCE OF AUTENTIC GELATO IS FRESHENESS AT LA COPA LOCA THAT'S WHAT WE PRACTICE AND RESPECT

WHAT IS “SORBETTO” (SORBET)?

Sorbetto is the Italian word for Sorbet the French frozen confections made with fruit, sugar and water. There are no fat in sorbetto, it contain between 2 and 29% of ugar and 29to 31 % of solids and .05 stabilizers.

WHAT IS “SHERBERT”?

Sherbert, is a simple Sorbetto with the addition of dairy product, usually milk.
