To work in this field, a person must go through an intense four or five-year apprenticeship program during which you are paid as they learn, earning a salary that equates to as much as $250,000 over the course of five years.

Upon completion of the apprenticeship program, apprentices enter the field as "journeyperson," and can earn up to $87,500 their first year and soar to as much as $120,000 - $200,000 in wages and benefits within 4-5 years of graduating depending on the career path they choose and where they live.

Some amazing projects including work done on Apple's headquarters, Atlanta's Mercedes-Benz Stadium, the US Capitol Dome renovation, Freedom Tower in New York City, Wells-Fargo Center in Philadelphia, and the Spy Museum in Washington, DC to name a few.

Debt-free and earning a six figure salary sounds like a great career move, doesn't it?

Igniteyourcareer.com goes live later this month!

Contact Jeff Henriksen at jhenriksen@smacna.org for more information.