After the abrupt closing of all three clubhouses on March 13th, many stepped in to step up for our youth whether through monetary or in-kind donations.

While safety will always be our highest priority, we are excited and pleased to announce the reopening of our Howlett & Southside Homes Clubhouses.

Given the state of the virus in our community and with guidance from local health officials, our plans are to provide an enjoyable summer camp, while practicing social distance. We are following proper precautions to ensure the health and safety of both members and staff, including but not limited to: COVID-19 training for all staff, minimizing group sizes, daily screenings, masks/face coverings for all staff and members, floor markings and signage, proper handwashing and hygiene care, regularly cleaning throughout the day & a deep-clean every night after closing to disinfect our facilities.

Summer Camp 2020 is currently education based in order to help bridge the gap students may have missed due to the abrupt closing of schools. Some physical activities are taking place, but only those that will still allow members to practice social distancing. Lunch and snacks are individually pre-packaged by an outside food service. The cafe area is not being utilized, meals are distributed to each program room.

Hosting the club in a pandemic as not been easy, it has been fulfilling. Virtual programming took place over the 1st couple of weeks, and once the club re-opened on July 13th, we welcomed more than 25 members back to the clubhouse the first week.
“The first and most important element that we try to get right every day is safety,” Adams says. “Making sure that once those kids are with us, the elements beyond the four walls of our clubs can’t harm them.”
