La Paloma was started in 1970 by the Buena family in Colorado. In 1975 we moved to Ohio with family recipes that had been handed down from generation to generation. The inspiration of a dream and the hard work of our hands have transformed a little twenty-two seat diner into the restaurant you are in today. We make everything fresh daily, nothing has changed since the day we began. We make our own salsa, corn chips, flour tortillas, and Sopapilla dough.

Ah, the Sopapilla! It is the house specialty created by Marsha Buena. (Those who have been coming for years knew her as Mama Buena). The Sopapilla has a special dough that is rolled out and filled with ingredients such as beef & cheese, chicken & cheese, and other items. It is then deep fried to a golden brown and topped with lettuce and tomatoes. The Sopapilla dough is special because Mama Buena made it in such a way that it does not absorb oil when it is deep fried, leaving you with a delicious flaky crust without all the grease!

Mama Buena taught the recipes to her children and they have continued to pass them on to their children.

We at La Paloma are blessed to have such wonderful and faithful customers.

Please enjoy your meal and we hope to see you again soon!

Thank you,
Rick & Mary Buena
