PROFILE

Thirty-two years ago in September of 1987 I began my teaching career as a Music teacher in the New York City Public School system but my life as a musician began at the age of seven and continues to this day. I bring my wealth of musical knowledge and performing to every single student I teach. My concert and recording career is on going congruent with my teaching career. I am a life long learner. I am proud of my performances both at Carnegie Hall and local performance spaces where I have showcased many aspiring students from the Peekskill City School District. My students go on to careers in music as demonstrated by the music scholarships they have won. I believe in excellence in performance through dedication and practice.
