Freddy Williams appointed to Forbes Nonprofit Council

Forbes Nonprofit Council Is an Invitation-Only Community for Chief Executives in Successful Nonprofit Organizations

[St. Petersburg, FL -- August 20, 2018] — Freddy Williams, President & CEO of Boys & Girls Clubs of the Suncoast, has been appointed to the Forbes Nonprofit Council, an invitation-only community for chief executives in successful nonprofit organizations.

Freddy joins other Forbes Nonprofit Council members, who are hand-selected, to become part of a curated network of successful peers and gain access to a variety of exclusive benefits and resources, including the opportunity to submit thought leadership articles and tips on industry-related topics for publishing on Forbes.com.

“I am excited to join the Forbes Nonprofit Council to provide leadership and expertise locally, regionally, nationally, and globally,” said Williams. “It is imperative that our nation recognize and support the critical role that afterschool programs provide, and our new involvement with Forbes will further cement Boys & Girls Clubs of the Suncoast’s leadership role. I look forward to partnering with corporations, foundations, government entities, and donors to achieve our vision of a community where all youth have access to quality out of school time programs that enable them to become productive, caring and responsible citizens.”

Scott Gerber, founder of Forbes Councils, says, “We are honored to welcome Freddy into the community. Our mission with Forbes Councils is to curate successful professionals from every industry, creating a vetted, social capital-driven network that helps every member make an even greater impact on the business world.”
