

Dental Practice

ACCREDITED

“Achieving accreditation demonstrates a commitment to the provision of excellent dental care and continuous quality improvement within the practice.” - per Quality Innovation Performance”

What Is QIP Accreditation?

The accreditation of private dental practices’ is based on the integration of a set of National Safety and Quality Health Service (NSQHS) Standards into everyday practice culture and patient safety. These standards harmonise regulatory requirements passed down by both Federal and State governments, with highlights being the demonstration of clear and evidence based patient benefits when visiting an accredited practice.

What This Means For Patients

When choosing an accredited practice a patient can expect a reduction in clinical and general risks, as well as the peace of mind in knowing that all staff are educated and engaged in the implementation of dental systems and improvement of dental processes within their practices.

National Safety and Quality Health Service Standards for Dentist’s were adopted by the Australian Commission on Safety and Quality in Health Care in 2011. The attainment of these standards means a dental practice has proven to be of the highest calibre in delivering quality patient care within Australia.

What Does This Means For FADC Dental Group

We can assure our patients that we are committed to ongoing and long term improvement of the policies and procedures that govern our dental practices, providing assurance to patients, staff, colleagues and peers that we are committed to quality, safety and across all standards.

We received an independent Accreditation recognition that we have met the requirements based on a defined criteria and set of standards that all practices can be judged equally against. Accreditation provides assurance to our patients, staff and everyone associated with the Practices that quality and performance standards have been met and are being constantly evaluated and improved upon.

Our integrity is fundamental to maintaining our accreditation which means we maintain effective corporate governance, ethical behaviour and knowledge in what we do and say. We aim for excellence in everything we do and constantly looking for ways to improve our services and train our staff.

FADC Dental Group proudly belongs to a new age of accredited dental practices, meeting QIP quality standards of patient care for all patients