Terms of Use and Disclaimer

Cato UK Limited and its affiliates and associates (together referred to as “Cato UK”) provide this website for information purposes only.

Material contained within this website has been prepared by Cato UK using sources believed to be reliable and accurate but Cato UK cannot and does not guarantee or warrant the accuracy, validity, timeliness or completeness of any references or data on this website. The information or data on this website may be out-of-date, and we make no commitment to update such information or data.

Nothing on this site represents an offer or a solicitation or a recommendation to buy or sell any service or security or financial instrument or constitutes investment, legal or tax advice nor is it to be relied upon in making an investment or other decision.

The material on this website is directed at and intended for use by professional or sophisticated principals and eligible counterparties. This website (including all information on the website) is not directed at or intended for distribution to or use by any person or entity who is resident in any jurisdiction where such distribution, publication, availability or use would be contrary to applicable laws, rules or regulations of any governmental authority or regulatory or self-regulatory organisation or where Cato UK is not authorised to provide such information or services.

Neither Cato UK nor any of its directors, officers, employees, agents or partners, will be liable or have any responsibility of any kind for any loss or damage that you may incur in the use of this website.

Cato UK reserves the right, at its discretion, to change, modify, add or delete parts of this website without notice.

Privacy

Cato UK is committed to ensuring that your privacy is protected. If we ask you to provide certain information by which you can be identified when using our website, then you can be assured that it will only be used in strict confidence.

Security

We are committed to ensuring that your information is and is kept secure in accordance with the UK’s Data Protection Act 1998.

Links to other websites

Our website may contain links to other websites of interest: however, please note that once you use these links and leave our website, we do not have any control over that other website and cannot be responsible for the protection and privacy of any information you provide whilst visiting such other sites.

Disclosure

Cato UK will not use or disclose information about you or your individual visits to the site or information that you may give us, such as your name, address, email address, to any third parties.
Cookies

This website will ask permission for cookies to be set. (A cookie is a small data file that a website places on your computer's hard drive.) Once you agree, the cookie file is added and it helps analyse web traffic or lets you know when you visit a particular site. Cookies allow web applications to respond to you as an individual so the application can tailor its operations to your needs, likes and dislikes by gathering and remembering information about your preferences. We use traffic log cookies to identify which pages are being used. This helps us analyse data about web page traffic and improve our website in order to tailor it to customer needs. We only use this information for statistical analysis purposes. A cookie does not give us access to your computer or any information about you, other than the data you choose to share with us. Further information about cookies can be found at: http://www.allaboutcookies.org

This website is produced by Cato UK and no part may be reproduced in any manner without the written permission of the same.